Venice Schools Expect Deficit

By GARY SCHNEIDER
Press-Record Staff Writer

A deficit budget of $2,243,121 was approved tentatively by the Venice School Board Monday night during a meeting in which School Superintendent John Pier said the district will run $312,931 short of meeting projected expenditures for the 1971-72 fiscal year which began July 1.

Pier told the board that all of the deficit will be incurred in the educational fund despite approval by referendum two years ago of a 40-cent tax rate increase in the educational fund.

The superintendent presented to the school board, and received its approval, of an educational fund appropriation of $1,807,893 which is an increase of $114,261 over the $1,793,632 educational fund budget approved a year ago. The balance of the budget figure is represented in other school district accounts, all of which are slightly less than those projected a year ago.

Pier's budget projections showed anticipated revenue of $1,331,881 for the educational fund, or $565,912 less than budgeted expenditures in that fund.

The overall deficit, however, is slightly less than that figure because of projected balances in the other accounts such as the building fund, transportation costs, bond payments and the municipal retirement fund.

Total Budget Higher

The total budget, including expenditures in all accounts, is $49,733 more than last year's total budget of $2,183,388.

The lesser difference in the comparison of the overall budget results from anticipated balances for the 1971-72 fiscal in the district's other fund accounts. According to the new budget, these are expected to include a balance of $23,596 in the building fund, $1,628 in the bond and interest fund, $12,517 in the transportation fund, $5,191 in the retirement fund, and $10,059 in the working cash fund.

Tentative approval of the budget by the school board places the budget on public inspection for a 30-day period as required by law. The budget will be available for inspection at the school district office in Venice until Sept. 7 when a public hearing will be held at 7 p.m.

Following the public hearing, a special meeting of the school board will be held to act on its final adoption. The school district must file its 1971-72 tax levy with the county clerk not later than the third Tuesday in September. The tax levy must be based upon final budget figures.

Will Borrow Funds
Budget figures presented in the tentative draft accepted by the school board Monday night indicate the district plans to borrow $135,000 in loan from other funds and to sell $405,424 worth of anticipation warrants to meet the deficit in the educational fund.

The building fund proposes expenditures, including maintenance, of $209,917 with revenue expected to total $244,266.

Father, Son Both Fifty-Year Masons

A first in Illinois and perhaps in the U. S. will highlight ceremonies at 5 p.m. Saturday at the Masonic Temple in Granite City.

More than 300 will receive 25-year membership pins from Triple Lodge 835 and Granite City Lodge 877 at the dinner meeting. And a 50-year pin will go to Harold A. Stewart, whose father, Charles H. Stewart, 98, also is a 50-year member, having received the pin in January 1955.

The younger Stewart, born in Pittsburgh, Pa., in 1900, came here with his parents in 1904 and graduated from Granite City High School in 1918. He worked for Mallinckrodt Chem-

GC School Budget at Record $21.8 Million

By MARION BARTOSIAK
Press-Record Staff Writer

A tentative budget totaling $21,824,873, an increase of $1,341,657 over that of last year, was adopted by the Granite City Board of Education for the 1971-72 school year during a meeting Monday night.

The budget includes $14,312,240 for the educational fund, up $1,236,247; $1,140,000 for the building fund, up $153,206; $1,107,328 for the bond and interest fund up $4,240; $333,641 for transportation, up $4,658,664 for new buildings and equipment, down $143,912.

Final adoption will follow a public hearing at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 6 at the school district administrative offices, where the budget will be posted for a 30-day period.

Tax Levy, Rate
The proposed estimated levy to be raised by taxes is $8,079,487 based on an estimated assessed valuation of $220 million, an increase in the levy of last year by $90,874. The tax rate would be increased by 35.5 cents per $100 assessed valuation, increasing it to $3.8203 which is about the limit permitted without voter approval.

The total increase in the budget of $1,341,657 is $940 less than the increase last year, not including construction funds from bond issues where expenditures show a decline.

It places the district at maximum levies in the education, building, life safety, special education construction and transportation funds.

State Aid Funds
The administration noted that the district will receive more monies in state aid than will be raised from local taxes.

Victor Anderson, who was in charge of budget preparation, said it is the belief of the administration that this could be the last balanced budget "we will experience for some time to come" and that next year's budget will include deficit spending for the first time since 1963.

Major cause of the total increase is teachers salaries, up $791,187. The board granted salary increases ranging from $850 to $950 for the district's 696 teachers in a two-year contract. Increases also were provided for administrators, clerical, custodial and maintenance personnel.

Increases totaled $126,946 in attendance, health, operation and maintenance, mostly in salaries for nurses, custodians and maintenance men.

Other Increases

GC Steel Boosts Prices; Some Layoffs

Granite City Steel Co., acting on the heels of a nationwide contract agreement between big steel and the steelworkers union, announced today a series of price increases on its flat-rolled steel products which, the company said, are in line with hikes announced by other steel producers.

The announcement came simultaneously with reports that Granite City Steel Co. has cut its regular work force by 450 employees and has laid off another 200 summer student workers that it customarily keeps on the payroll until mid-September.

A company spokesman insisted that the reduction of 450 in the regular work force "is as far as we are going at this time."

He denied that further cuts are planned within the next few days, but admitted that the 450 layoffs are in the main plant and do not include a number of temporary layoffs at the blast furnace plant because of the shutdown of one of the two blast plants.

Layoffs at the blast plant began two weeks ago after one of the two furnaces developed a break failure. Shutdown of the furnace has resulted in reduced production and therefore is reported as a contributing factor to layoffs in the mill.

The breakdown of blast furnace "A" was not anticipated because frequent repairs had been made in recent months of a blast furnace "B" and any breakdown that might occur was expected in that furnace. As a result, it was learned from reliable sources, repairs are being made on Furnace "A" and after they are completed Furnace "B" is scheduled for shutdown for complete relining.

Full repairs on Furnace "B" are expected to be completed by early February, according to reliable sources.

Because of the breakdown in the blast furnace, the firm has imported from National Steel Co., semi-finished steel which it can process in the mill to meet customer orders.

Meanwhile, Granite City Steel Co. has not yet begun its annual negotiations for a new contract with the Granite City Sub-district of the United Steelworkers of America. This is due, it was said yesterday, to the fact that copies of the new "big steel" contract have not yet been received and analyzed, prior to consideration of local contract issues.

Both Thomas Griffin, USWA subdistrict director, and Granite City Steel Co. officials, told the Press-Record yesterday that local issues for a new contract are negotiated within a 60-day period immediately following the signing of the nationwide "big steel" contract. Since copies of the new nationwide contract have not been received thus far, negotiations therefore have not been opened at the local level.

In announcing a steel price hikes at Granite City Steel Co., John A. Leschen, vice-president of sales, said the price of hot rolled steel will be increased 75 cents per 100 pounds, effective Monday.

Effective Monday, Nov. 29, the price of hot rolled bands will be increased 60 cents per 100 pounds, the price of hot rolled sheet and strip 65 cents per 100 pounds, the price of cold rolled sheet 77.5 cents per 100 pounds, and the price of galvanized sheet 87.5 cents per 100 pounds.

A plant spokesman said Granite City Steel Co. has a peak work force of 5,100 employees and all have worked full-time since last year. The 200 college students are summer replacements and not included in the peak work force, the spokesman said.

Levee District Ends Closed Caucuses

The East Side Levee and Sanitary District board of trustees will conduct no more closed caucuses to discuss business matters prior to regular meetings, newly-elected Board President William "Mike" Ebersold of Venice told the board yesterday.

Ebersold, in a regular meeting attended by Trustees Morris Campbell and Lawrence Tolar of East St. Louis, making a minimum quorum necessary to conduct an official meeting, said he expects caucus sessions will be held prior to the regular sessions because pre-meeting discussions are frequently necessary.

But, he said, these caucuses will be open to the public and anyone wishing to attend is welcome.

As far back as veteran observers can recall, regular board meetings have been preceded by closed-door caucuses in which most of the major business matters were ironed out before they were brought into the open in regular business meetings that followed.

New Deal in Policy
The new mandate on caucus sessions is another phase of a "new deal" in levee district operations promised by Ebersold following his election as president of the board to succeed Morris Campbell.

At Ebersold's urging, the board yesterday also adopted a resolution rescinding a bill passed three years ago that permitted top levee board officials to authorize the signing of payroll and claim checks with rubber stamps.

Ebersold told the board that hereafter, all checks will be signed personally by himself as president, and by the chief clerk, Ben Campbell, and Treasurer Thomas Stalcoff of Pontoon Beach. This policy was initiated last week by the new president who held up the payroll for the last half of July until personal signatures could be placed on the checks by all three officers.

George Duff of East St.

Louis, the other member of the present four-man levee board, is ill and did not attend Wednesday's regular levee board meeting.

Ebersold announced yesterday that no pay raises will be granted this year, except in instances where there are promotions. And, he said, promotions will be based on the ability and efficiency of the individual employee involved.

An inventory system for all levee district equipment in Madison and St. Clair County is being prepared. Ebersold told the board, and reductions in payroll are being effected in an effort to trim levee district costs.

City Committee Will Seek More Physicians

A proposal that an "intensive campaign" be initiated immediately to attract more physicians to the community was endorsed unanimously by the Granite City Council Monday night.

Council members, noting that several Granite City physicians have died in recent months and that several others have moved from the area, pointed out that the growing shortage of medical practitioners "has become acute" and presents a critical problem.

The council approved a motion by Alderman Paul Schuler that City Attorney Leon Scroggs prepare for adoption in the Aug. 16 council session a resolution authorizing appointment of a committee to undertake such a campaign.

Schuler told the council that he believed the mayor should appoint a "blue ribbon" committee to make every possible effort to convince more physicians to establish their practices in Granite City.

Urges 'Serious' Effort
"And it must be done seriously, not just a lot of talk," Schuler said.

"During the last few months several of our most active physicians have died. Several others have moved from here. We are acutely short of doctors and it is time we do everything possible to meet the problem," Schuler said.

Mayor Donald Partney said that he has been pursuing every course to relieve the mounting problem, but that the prospect of a remunerative practice appear to have little influence.

"It will take something besides the prospects of income to attract doctors to the community," Schuler replied.

Alderman Everett Morlen criticized Illinois laws requiring that professional practitioners be trained in Illinois schools before they can practice in Illinois.

Approve Fire Pact

The council Monday night also approved a countywide mutual aid agreement under which fire departments of communities and special fire districts agree to assist one another in fires or disasters of such magnitude that it cannot be handled by the local department.

The pact was approved on motion of Alderman Clyde Boyd who said an effort is being made to complete the agreements among all Madison county units as soon as possible.

The council authorized a call for bids on 11 pieces of equipment and accessories for the fire department's new American-LaFrance fire truck. Estimated cost of the equipment is $3,605. The items include: (Continued on page 7, col. 8)

3 Charged in Watchman's Murder

Three Granite City men were charged with murder this week and a juvenile was being held in connection with the death of a watchman at the Marco Polo Lounge, Route 162 and Eduardo Drive, on July 22.

Field on murder charges at the Madison County Jail were David Douglas, 19, arrested Friday, James J. Hill, 21, arrested Thursday, and Richard Wilkerson, 28, who was taken into custody yesterday at Pontoon Beach.

A boy, 16, who authorities allege is implicated, will become 17 soon and may be certified as an adult to stand trial, according to Madison County Investigator Demos Nicholas.

A juvenile girl also was held as a material witness, he added.

County authorities said all five resided at 28 Briarcliff.

The victim, who died of wounds a week later in St. Louis, was James Meyerhoff, 70, who lived at 1608 Courtney Blvd. He was struck on the head with a crowbar and was shot in the abdomen during a burglary at the lounge.

Nicholas said a break in the case came when a .38-caliber pistol and a flashlight were found in a catch basin at National and Terminal avenues.

The gun and the slug taken from the victim were sent to the state crime laboratory where it was determined that the bullet came from the gun. Serial numbers had been filed off the weapon, but they were determined by the Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Division of the Internal Revenue Bureau which used acid, Nicholas said.

It had been registered to a Granite City area resident and had been stolen in a burglary two days before the shooting.

While investigating another burglary in the Pontoon Beach area, officers were led, they alleged, to Douglas. He was taken into custody to be held for military authorities as being absent without leave.

Nicholas alleged that while he was questioning Douglas last Friday afternoon, the suspect volunteered additional information.

Construction Starts On New Rose Bowl

The Rose Bowl restaurant, 3120 Nameoki Road, gutted by fire July 3, will be rebuilt, Charles Hester, proprietor of the Quad-Cities' largest restaurant-lounge, confirmed today. Construction will start late next week with a target date for completion between three and four months.

The Ed Moore general contracting firm which has been clearing debris from the concrete block structure the two weeks will rebuild the restaurant, Hester said. A totally new decor and floor plan with 125 additional seating capacity are planned for the single story building.

A mid-afternoon blaze, in which loss was estimated in excess of $200,000, resulted from a grease fire in the kitchen area where preparations were under way to open the dining room. Extensive remodeling and refurbishing of the building's exterior and interior had been completed earlier this year at a reported cost of $40,000.

Centralized Purchasing by State Shows Savings

By W. ALLEN MANNING
Copley News Service

Purchasing for all of state government except universities now will be done by the state Department of General Services.

On the last day of the General Assembly, legislation passed unanimously which requires the state purchasing agent to procure goods and services for the seven state elected officials.

The governor has not yet signed the bill into law, but he is expected to.

Until recently the purchasing agent was in charge of buying only for those departments under the governor. Then State Auditor Michael Howlett and later Lt. Gov. Paul Simon asked the office to take over their purchasing.

Their action is significant because they are both Democrats who gave their purchasing power to the administration of a Republican governor, Richard B. Ogilvie.

The new arrangement has political significance from the point of view that persons who do business with state agencies are one of the prime sources of campaign contributions.

Elected officials in such offices as secretary of state and state school superintendent, which use considerable amounts of supplies and equipment, were reluctant to part with the power to make purchases directly without going through another agency. That reluctance was based at least in part on the desire to have suppliers as a campaign funds source.

However, problems in the purchasing sections of offices headed by late Sec. of State Paul Powell and former Supt. of Schools Ray Page muted opposition to the consolidation measure this year, and it swept through the legislature.

Also helping to passage was a special report to the auditor general which said expanding the purchasing authority of General Services would increase public support for state government.

Examples of savings through centralized purchasing and purchasing through the procurement section are given in the report:

Office Furniture. The procurement section was receiving an average discount from list of 60%. Elected Official A was receiving a 32% discount.

Automobiles. Procurement Section paying from 23 to 35% less than elected official A for similar cars.

Blue Books. In 1959-60 the state paid $2.59 for each book and with competitive bidding reduced that cost in 1967-68 to $2.45 each.

State Highway Maps. In 1967 the state paid $51.16 per thousand and in 1971 they paid $45.11 per thousand.

Two Burglary Attempts

Burglars unsuccessfully attempted to force front entrance doors by removing hinge pins at the Radio Shack and Commercial Credit Corp. in the American Village Shopping Center during the night, it was reported at 9:10 a.m. Tuesday.

The services to other state officials can have a "dramatic impact of the cost of state government," according to the report.

"Based on our experience in conducting similar appraisals, we conclude that the procurement division represents a very effective operation, with good operation, with good organization, operating with high efficiency, with highly qualified technical leadership, and it is pursuing well-defined procurement objectives with professional dedication to integrity."

Gov. Ogilvie to Attend Final Festival Concert

Illinois Gov. and Mrs. Richard B. Ogilvie have accepted an invitation to attend the Aug. 15 Mississippi River Festival concert. The evening has been designated "Governor's Night" at the festival, which is held on the campus of Southern Illinois University-Southwestern.

The Illinois governor will be the guest of the SIU Board of Trustees at the concert. The evening performance begins at 7:30 p.m. and will feature music by The St. Louis Symphony Orchestra with guest conductor Andre Kostelanetz. Soloist will be Max Rabinovitch, concertmaster for the orchestra.

The festival is a six-week musical program sponsored by Mississippi River Festival Inc., a not-for-profit Illinois corporation with directors from both Illinois and Missouri. The Illinois Arts Council has been joined by the Missouri Arts Council in providing partial financial support for the program.

The Aug. 15 program is the last performance by the Symphony for the 1971 MRF season. Maestro Kostelanetz is the man who inaugurated the New York Philharmonic's "Promenades" Concerts at Philharmonic Hall in 1983, and he has been associated with that orchestra for the past 15 years.

Concert tickets, ranging in price from $2.50 to $5.50 for reserved seats and $2.00 for lawn seating, may be purchased at box offices in Missouri and Illinois.

Tickets may be purchased at the festival site the evening of the concert.

Walker Continues Walks in Area to Seek Election

Dan Walker, walking candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, Tuesday demanded that Gov. Ogilvie, who he said would emasculate the environmental protection act.

Walker also urged the Legislature to restore a cut made by the governor in the appropriation for the Illinois Industrial Development Authority.

Both measures were brought up by Walker at a press conference in East St. Louis at which Walker outlined the next leg of his walk across the state to meet the citizens of Illinois.

Walker, accompanied by his two sons, Dan Jr., 22, and Charles, 16, resumed his walk today at the 30-mile mark following the press conference.

The trio will walk through Belleville, Collinsville, Edwardsville, Granite City, Wood River and Alton in the Madison and St. Clair Counties area and then head northeast through Jersey, Macoupin, Montgomery, Morgan and Sangamon Counties.

Major stops will be made in Litchfield, Carlinville, Jacksonville and Springfield. This phase of the walk will take about three weeks.

The utility control bill, termed by Walker as "perhaps the worst piece of legislation of the session" would vest in the Illinois Commerce Commission final authority on site selection and thereby all environmental matters involving utilities, including the question of cooling towers, and control of radioactivity.

The bill, sponsored by State Rep. Allen Schoberlein (R., Aurora), would remove both the Environmental Protection Agency and the Pollution Control Board and in many cases any local (municipal) agency from any meaningful voice in matters concerning utility pollution.

"This measure alone would gut the governor's highly touted environmental act. And it also would be the first step in opening the door for other industrial polluters to seek transfer of jurisdiction from environmentalists to a 'friendly' regulatory agency," he said.

Two Men Charged in School Burglary

Two men were charged with burglary after they were arrested in the Venice-Lincoln Technical Center at Venice at 5 a.m. yesterday.

John L. Ingram, 24, of 205 Weaver St., Venice, and Paul Drayton, 24, of 810 Franklin St., Madison, were arrested after officers answered a burglar alarm at the school at 4:30 a.m. and found the men in the building, police reported. Entry had been gained by breaking a window in an east side door.

Two coffee pots and a radio from the cafeteria and a radio from the counselor's office had been removed to a spot near a door, officers said.

Madison Council Votes to Oppose Water Rate Hike

Madison will join the other communities in this area in opposing a proposed rate increase sought by the East St. Louis & Interurban Water Co., it was decided in regular council meeting Tuesday night.

Council members voted unanimously to instruct its legal department to file an objection to the rate hike with the Illinois Commerce Commission and to meet with legal representatives of Granite City and Venice in an effort to plan a joint fight against the water company's petition.

Alderman Richard L. Kismar moved that the city take such action. It was given a second by Alderman Stanley Krakowicki.

The action was taken in response to a letter sent to the Council by Robert W. Greaves, manager of the water company. No date has yet been set for hearings in Springfield.

Mayor Mike Sasyk announced the committee appointments. The new committees are: Finance Committee, Krakowicki, chairman; Ray Kozielek, Third Ward; Booker T. Walton, Fifth Ward; and Robert D. Reeves, First Ward, members.

Street and Alley Committee, John H. Haynes, Fifth Ward; Costoff and Kismar, Fourth Ward; Kismar and Krakowicki, members.

Police Committee, Donald L. Broyles, Second Ward, chairman; Reeves, Haynes and Costoff, members.

Ordinance Committee, Kismar, chairman; Kozielek and Broyles, members; Krakowicki, Broyles and Haynes, members.

Fire, Light, and Water Committee, Walton, chairman; Krakowicki, Kismar and Paul E. Ashford, First Ward, members.

Permits Committee, Ashford, Walton and Sikora, Legislative Committee, Krakowicki, members.

Land Fill and Available Grounds Committee, Haynes, chairman; Walton, Sikora, Krakowicki and Kismar, Chain of Rocks Bridge Committee, Reeves, chairman; Sikora, Haynes, Kozielek, and Broyles, Industrial Park Committee, Krakowicki, chairman; Costoff, Broyles, Reeves and Kismar, members.

The Council passed a resolution to participate in the National Shelter Planning Program which will be operated through the Madison County Civil Defense office.

In other action the aldermen approved the installation of street lights in the following locations, 711 Lee St., 1805 Kennedy St., 1035 Reynolds St., 12th Street and Washington Avenue, and at the park located between Highland Avenue, Rhodes Street and Sixth Street.

The next meeting of the Madison Council will be held Aug. 17, at 8 p.m. in the Council Room of the Madison City Hall, 1529 Third St.

1896-1971 Victory in World War II Set Stage for Wide Variety Of Growth, Improvements

The Granite City Diamond Jubilee will begin Aug. 21. This is the 30th and last of a preview series on local history. A Diamond Jubilee historical issue of the Press-Record will be printed Aug. 16.

Granite City has developed into an outstanding industrial center and the largest city in Madison County from a small farming village of the Nineteenth Century.

The community was founded in 1892 by Dr. George W. Bell, a "lively, enterprising Yankee" who took his way on a skiff from Ohio and began farming and practicing medicine on 200 acres now in West Granite.

The next settlers were the Hawk, Braden and Kinder families who migrated from Wheeling, W. Va., decided the place was "nothing but a sand prairie," and gave it the name Six Mile Prairie.

Then the name was changed to Kinder Hook in honor of Calvin Kinder, one of the pioneers.

A few years later, a railroad line ran through from East St. Louis and Alton and a railroad station was built.

Kinder Hook remained a model farming village until 1891, when William F. Niedringhaus, a St. Louis industrialist, arrived via the Alton Road at what is now Niedringhaus Avenue and the railroad tracks.

He settled upon Kinder Hook as the ideal location for an industrial center, and in the spring of 1893 made a land purchase.

Plans Filed in 1893
The city was surveyed and the plans for the center were filed in Edwardsville May 20, 1893.

In 1895, the Granite City Steel Plant, American Steel Foundries and the former Marble Lead Works were founded. The goal of the Niedringhaus family was to produce mostly graniteware products, and from them Granite City got its name.

The following year, the St. Louis Stamping Works, later known as the National Enameling & Stamping Co., or Neco, was founded and Granite City was well on its way to industrial growth.

The Commonwealth Steel plant, which was in 1929 purchased by General Steel Casting Corp., was built in 1902.

City Government
City type government began in Granite City in 1896, with the first council office at the railroad crossing on 19th street.

Quincy Street, 21st Street and the railroad tracks bounded the city at the time, and the city had board sidewalks and cinder streets.

Immigration and the demand for industrial labor created housing shortages in Granite City in the early years and Hungary/Hollow, a new colony, was established.

Population of the city had grown to 3,112 by 1900. The first strike by newly formed unions took place in 1902 over the "swift pace of production."

Granite City survived a flood roof-top deep in Hungary Hollow and West Granite in 1903. Growth continued, and in 1910 the population was 9,903.

The McKinley Bridge, built in 1910, linked this community to Missouri.

The Illinois Traction Co. of Sen. W. B. McKinley, for whom the bridge was named, began shuttling passengers between Granite City and St. Louis for a streetcar fare of five cents.

Wilson Campaign Trail
The Washington airframe featuring vaudeville shows and silent movies was opened in 1911, and the next year Woodrow Wilson campaigned for the presidency from the platform of the airframe.

Charlie Chaplin delighted audiences there in 1916 with his antics in "The Punctured Romance."

The Granite City Public Library was opened and the city got a new post office in 1911. An experiment in an eight-hour day began in area industries in 1912.

By 1914, the number of plants in Granite City had grown to 39 and were producing 17 million dollars' worth of manufactured products annually.

World War I
A new period of development began for the city when World War I broke out.

Industries operated at peak production making munitions and equipment and employment doubled during the war.

Housing shortages and hopelessness in schools became problems. Two influenza epidemics, in 1918 and 1920, involved 1200 illnesses and caused a total of 55 deaths.

In the period following the war, a public high school was built and a park district was created. The park district purchased 32 acres, including ground for Wilson Park, which was opened June 15, 1923.

In 1929, Granite City was progressing, with a $68,000 city library, a $150,000 city hall, and a $50,000 high school just completed when the Great Depression set in.

Industrial production plummeted, businesses folded and unemployment reached epidemic proportions; in 1934, there were 4000 Granite City residents on the relief rolls.

Slow Economic Recovery
Granite City recovered through the New Deal, and emergency measures, but recovery was slow.

By 1937, however, the number of families on relief had declined to 400 and the economy was being revived.

Granite City Steel Co. modernized its plant and during the year ran two strip mills.

Meanwhile, a bus system was established here and later developed in the Community Coach Co., which connected the Quad-Cities with St. Louis.

It later was purchased by the Bi-State Transit System.

Granite City again entered a period of humming activity in December, 1941, when World War II involved the U.S.

Industrial expansion became a regular thing and new plants were built and old ones were enlarged.

Planning Era
Planning which began in 1898 seemed to mark the beginning of a new era for Granite City, culminating in the All-America City award in 1959.

The wartime economy saw a construction boom get under way with residential expansion and the building of the Granite City Army Engineer Depot.

It was the largest of its type in the world.

Civic problems such as housing shortages and shortages of consumer products seemed to spur citizens to efforts for improvement.

World War II brought rationing of meat, autos, gasoline, and other goods, but Granite City accepted the controls willingly, recognizing the need for them.

They produced huge volumes of vital defense equipment at local industries.

Postwar Building Boom
Postwar urge to progress was manifested by the creation of the Bi-State Development Agency, opening up of choice residential areas for expansion with Nemo's annexation to Granite City.

School children at one time had to attend makeshift classes held in churches but in 1952 Granite City voted a $3,840,000 bond issue and again in 1958 one for $2,000,000, followed by two more successful bond issues in the 1960s.

Trolley Era Fades
In 1958, the last trolley car line succumbed to progress.

The achievements which brought Granite City the All-America City award in February 1959 were numerous.

Besides the canal and locks, new schools, shopping centers and suburban expansion, the city's 1960 population was up by nearly 6000 persons from a 1955 census, and community leaders believed the city was just on the threshold of even greater growth.

The 1970 census placed Granite City in the No. 1 position among municipalities of Madison County.

Post Corporation Earnings Higher So Far in 1971

APPLETON, WIS.—Post Corporation on Tuesday reported first-half earnings of $503,817 or 74 cents per share, compared with restated earnings for the same 1970 period of $268,736 or 35 cents per share.

The company attributed the increase to three major factors:

(1) A substantial increase in the earnings (after restating 1970 first-half results) of All-Star Insurance Corp., of which Post now owns 99.5%.

(2) The contributions to profits of two new subsidiaries that were not owned for the entire period last year.

(3) Improved business conditions in most of the company's markets.

All-Star, a Milwaukee-based property and casualty insurance underwriter acquired by Post in 1969, accounted for more than a third of Post's profits for the 1971 period.

The new subsidiaries are INRECO, a Los Angeles-based insurance brokerage firm, and the Granite City Press-Record, a semi-weekly newspaper. INRECO will open a Chicago

Net sales of Post's newspaper division were up 18% over a year ago, and those of its broadcast division were up 9%.

For the full year of 1970, Post reported operating earnings of $1.25 per share, and net earnings after an extraordinary charge of $1.03 per share.

The restating of 1970's first-half results was brought about principally by changes in All-Star's interim calculations of loss reserves and prepaid advertising expenses.

Post Corp. is a diversified holding company headquartered in Appleton. Its major operations are in newspaper, broadcasting and insurance.

Clifton Allen, 60, Dies; Inquiry Held
Clifton Allen, 60, of 1324 Madison Ave., was pronounced dead upon arrival at St. Elizabeth Hospital at 9:28 a.m. Wednesday. An inquiry was conducted by Mrs. Lucy Lucido, deputy coroner, who held the death was due to a coronary thrombosis.

Mr. Allen was a resident of the Quad-Cities for 50 years. He was born in Hopkinsville, Ky. Mr. Allen was the owner and proprietor of a dry cleaning station in Venice for many years. He retired 10 years ago.

He was a member of the New Hope Baptist Church of Granite City. Survivors include a brother, Carl Allen of Madison, and one sister, Mrs. Mary Dickerson of Granite City.

Funeral arrangements are given in today's obituary column.

A. O. Smith Corp. auto frame plant was built, Granite City Steel Co. undertook a large expansion program, a First National Bank Building was erected, the American National Bank was built, and Granite City erected the city's first skyscraper office building.

A 100-bed annex was built at St. Elizabeth Hospital, the YMCA was modernized and successful campaigns were waged against crime and on fringes of the city.

Vadalabene Named to Audit, City Problems Commissions

Illinois Senate President Pro Tempore Cecil Partridge this week announced he had appointed Senator Sam M. Vadalabene to the Legislative Audit Commission and the Cities and Villages Municipal Problems Commission.

In appointing the Edwardsville Democrat to the prestigious audit commission, Partridge cited Vadalabene's knowledge of state finances and his experience as vice-chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee.

The Legislative Audit Commission is one of the permanent legislative bodies set up to oversee the revenue, expenditure and audit picture of the state. The commission has continuing existence and may meet and conduct its business anywhere within the state at any time. Members review audits of all departments of state government and anytime a questionable practice is uncovered, those responsible have to report to the commission.

Vadalabene also was appointed to the Cities and Villages Municipal Problems Commission. This commission is composed of legislative and public members and acts as a communications link between state and local officials. From the testimony of mayors, city managers and other people who have to work under legislation passed by the General Assembly, legislators get an idea of improvements that can be made.

Senator Vadalabene said that both of these commissions could perform needed services in the difficult area of implementation of the new constitution. He pointed out that the General Assembly is required by the constitution to provide by law for the audit of the obligation, receipt and use of public funds. It also is required to appoint an auditor-general. Neither of these responsibilities has been fulfilled.

Also, according to Vadalabene, the most troublesome section of the Constitution to implement so far has been the local government article. He believes the Cities and Villages Municipal Problems Commission can serve as a two-way communication channel for legislators and local officials to settle the problems of home rule.

Friday Night Promenade To Feature Music, Dance

An area of Civic Park, located in the 1300 block of Niedringhaus Avenue, will provide the rendezvous point where Jubilee promoters will gather about 8 o'clock Friday evening after a leisurely stroll through the downtown business district.

The third in a series of four promenades, preceding the community's week-long "Diamond Jubilee Celebration," Aug. 21-25, will originate from the Granite City Trust Bank parking area at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow.

All local residents are invited to take part in the promenade event, to be followed with music and dancing in the 1300 block of Niedringhaus Avenue. Participants are encouraged to wear clothing contemporary to the early years in the city's 75-year history.

Vehicle traffic will be barred from the block-long area while Friday evening's festivities take place, according to Jubilee officials, who said the zone will be cordoned off to allow promenaders to dance and enjoy musical entertainment.

Judge William Johnson again will preside over "Kangaroo Court" proceedings at which local officials and attorneys will act as prosecutors and defense counselors.

The "court," convened in the 1300 block of Niedringhaus, will levy impartial sentences on persons "arrested" in the downtown area by the "Keystone Kops Corps." Culprits brought to "court" are individuals found without Jubilee participation buttons, an officer said.

Furnishing the music for dancing and listening tomorrow will be the "Station Three" group, featuring Ray and James Slack and Philip Graber.

Local Attention On Tuscola Air Pollution Case

By JOAN MURARO
Copley News Service

Springfield—Final arguments have been heard in an air pollution matter involving a Tuscola firm and expected to have far-reaching effect on many future pollution actions in Illinois.

At issue in the hearing before the Illinois Pollution Control Board hearing officer was a request for variance filed by U. S. Industrial Co. for its plant at Tuscola.

However, a secondary issue arising during the action against the plant may overshadow the local determination, since it involves the right of a company or industry to threaten to close down a plant rather than comply with anti-pollution regulations.

Warn of Closing
Prior to the public hearings on the question, the plant manager for the Tuscola plant issued a news release stating that if the firm was forced to comply with EPA recommendations for reducing pollution, it would be "unconformable to close plant, and it would be closed."

The announcement produced widespread public protests both to the EPA and to Gov. Richard Ogilvie, since the firm employs 1,200 persons is a major source of employment in the town of 4,000.

As a result of the threat, EPA chief attorney Thomas W. Scheuerman requested the control board to include as part of its final order a directive. The directive would be that if the firm at any time in the future decides to close the Tuscola plant as a result of any part of the board's order in the matter, the company will be required first to notify the board and the EPA, and be required to produce financial evidence showing that it would actually be more profitable to close the plant than comply with the order.

At the EPA's request, Drummond C. Bell, president of the EPA's parent company, testified under oath during the hearing, and said the company has no intention of closing the plant.

During the hearing, financial evidence requested by the EPA was introduced, showing the Chemical Division, of which the Tuscola plant is a part, had showed profits of $15,906,000 for the last year, an increase of 43% in the last two years.

Commenting on the hearing, EPA Director William Blaser said, "The stark fact is that, by their own admission, under oath, the company never had made such an analysis (to show the firm would be better off to close the plant than comply) either before or after the plant manager's inflammatory statements."

Blaser added, "It was cruel to tell the people of this community that they had to choose between their jobs and clean air because it is apparent now that the citizens of this area can have both."

The EPA has asked that the firm be fined $100,000 for past violations and that it be required to post a performance bond equal to the installation cost of certain air pollution control equipment, pending actual installation.

The company attorney earlier had asked that "in view of the company's good faith," the performance bond be waived.

Quad City Mental Health Clinic To Conduct Counselor Training

By GARY SCHNEIDER
Press-Record Staff Writer

An $87,000 program for training Madison County school counselors in mental health consultation skills will be presented to the Madison County Mental Health (708) Board for approval and partial funding at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Court house at Edwardsville.

If the board approves the plan, the program, which would be sponsored by the State Department of Education, for a total of $20,000.

The remaining $27,000 would be funded by the county's 15 school districts, many of which already have endorsed the program. Granite City District 5 approved funds for its share Monday night.

The plan was announced at a meeting of the county's 15 district superintendents and William R. L. Truemp, county superintendent of educational service region, in Edwardsville.

The program will be conducted by the Mental Health Clinic, Quad-Cities center, in four phases — orientation, training, installation and evaluation, and the preparation of a report of results.

In the first phase, counselors and their supervisors will meet with the program staff to explain goals and objectives. At that time, the amount of training time which the counselors can spare will be determined and the program will be arranged within these limitations.

Institute staff members, administrators and supervisors from the participating districts will select counselor consulting teams which will outline problem areas and identify skills that will be needed by the various counselors. The areas may include pupil behavior, student-teacher relationships, relations of teachers with each other and administrators, school-community relations, drug, alcohol, the under-achiever, the disruptive student and others.

The second phase, that of actual training, will build on the counselor's skills in planning programs to deal with mental health problems. It is estimated by the program planners that if counselors can spend two to three hours per day, the training program can be completed in two to three months. Methods of determining the effectiveness of each program will be dealt with in the sessions.

During this period, a network of counselor consultation teams will be established to provide an ongoing means of sharing information concerning the effect of various programs.

Toward the end of the phase, counselors will begin designing programs for their schools and will establish means for evaluating the programs.

The third phase will include installation of the programs in the schools involving the county's 63,000 public school students. The phase will continue in operation through the close of the school year with consultants from the institute staff program available to assist counselors and answer questions.

Develop New Programs
At some point during the installation period, the consulting teams will meet with administrators to develop new programs for the next year when they will be functioning as consultants without the support of the institute staff.

During the final phase the institute staff will prepare a report of programs and an evaluation of each. The training program and the network of consulting teams also will be evaluated and recommendations for continuation or improvement will be made.

Dr. Paul Handle of the Institute of Organizational Psychology at St. Louis University will be one of the two institute staff members overseeing the program. The other has not been named.

Dr. Handle formerly was an assistant professor of psychology at Georgetown University, Washington, D. C., and has served as consultant to numerous programs. He is the author of seven articles addressing program evaluation, group functioning and decision making processes.

He and the other staff member named will work a full year, half-time, at a salary of $7,000 each.

Under the staff doctors will be six graduate assistants from the Institute of Organizational Psychology who will work 30 hours per week for the year-long program at salaries of $5,000 each. Four will be named program trainers and the remaining two will work as program evaluators.

A secretary will be assigned 20 hours per week for the program at a salary of $2,500 and three consultants will be assigned 10 hours per week to the program at a salary of $5,000 each.

Dr. Nick J. Calarelli, a professor of psychology and director of the institute, will serve as program designer and developer, and Dr. C. Munz, a member of the faculty of the Department of Psychology at St. Louis University has been named research and development consultant. A third consultant, to deal with data analysis, has not been named.

The budget for the program sets aside $1500 for renting and maintaining conference room and small rooms for training sessions. Whenever possible, school buildings will be used but most training sessions will be held while school is in session and other facilities will be necessary. Dr. Robert E. Newsum, consulting psychologist to the local mental health clinic, commented in a report on the proposed training program. Other expenses include $1,000 for travel, $5,000 for materials and $15,000 for the institute and university overhead costs.

The project will be operated by the local mental health clinic, assisted by the Institute of Organizational Psychology.

School districts expected to enroll counselors in the program are Granite City, Madison, Venice, Roxana, Triad, Livingston, Highland, Edwardsville, Bethalto, Collinsville, Alton, East Alton (elementary) and East Alton-Wood River (high school), Wood River (elementary) and Worden.

Hospital Wall To Be Studied By Engineers

An engineering firm has been engaged to make a study of exterior brickwork of the new St. Elizabeth Hospital wing, where a crack has developed in a wall.

The study was reported to the hospital's Lay Advisory Board at a meeting Monday by the board's building committee, headed by Arthur Shoenbeck.

Purpose of the study will be to make recommendations to the hospital on how to avoid encountering future maintenance costs in the area of the crack.

The possibility of opening the new wing about Sept. 1 has been under consideration but this date will not be met, a hospital spokesman said. It had been a tentative rather than definite target date.

"We've promised this community a first-rate hospital," Shoenbeck told the advisory board, "and that's exactly what they're going to get."

"Taking these steps now is necessary from the standpoint of good economy. A delay at this point is worth it. We're building a hospital to serve generations."

President C. E. Blankenship welcomed to advisory board membership Dr. Robert D. Blankenship, an active member of the hospital's medical staff.

Blankenship commented, "Plans are moving ahead for an all-out program for St. Elizabeth Hospital in observance of its golden anniversary this year—in conjunction with Granite City's Diamond Jubilee and the hospital's anticipated completion of the new addition."

Dune Buggies Join Tomorrow Night's Tri-City Race Program

The racing program at the Tri-City Speedway this week will take on a new look as dune buggies, many driven by local drivers, join the super-sprints and late model stock cars for a triple-header program.

Local dune buggy entries are invited and there will be no entry fee. The cars must have a dune buggy body, a roll bar and seat belts and the driver is required to wear a crash helmet (football helmets are not allowed).

The program for the amateur drivers will include heat events and a feature race of between 15 and 20 laps for a $1,000 purse providing 20 or more cars enter.

Drivers in the super-sprint division will include Bobby Jones of Danville, the new track point leader. Jones squeaked by Bill Utz of Sedalia, Mo., in the point race Sunday night by winning the feature event and his heat. Utz claimed second in his heat and fourth in the feature. Jones further gained ground by being second fastest in qualifications while Utz was third.

Evan Long of Jacksonville finished second in the feature and was trailed by Bobby Minor and Dalton Walker of St. Louis and Don Carter.

Dietzel Fastest
Fast time of the night in the sprinters went to Junior Dietzel of Jefferson City, Mo., in 23.80 seconds on the half-mile clay track.

In the late models, Myers claimed fast time in 27.62 seconds with Spalding and Bobby Stanton of East Alton trailing.

Utz won the close sprint trophy dash race Sunday despite the determined efforts of Jones and Dietzel, and Stanton won the late model trophy dash with Myers, Spalding and Long in a bunch behind him.

Sprint heat winners Sunday were Dietzel, Jones and Dennis Spencer of Alton. Stock heat winners were Minor, Carter and Glenn Suhling of Granite City, his first event win of the season.

Mike Glass of Granite City had a rough ride in the sprint feature as he and Pat King bumped several times in a close race for the sixth position, an encounter which ended with King spinning and hitting the outside wall in the first turn of the third lap.

Clete Blackwell of Hillsberry, Mo., turned in the top driving demonstration of the late-model event as he lost control of the 901 stocker in the fourth turn of the eighth lap, hit the concrete wall in front of the grandstands, threw the car into reverse and quickly cleared the track records before a solid pack of cars sped by.

Racing fans recognized a familiar face in the crowd of pit mechanics Sunday as Arnie Knepner of Belleville, well known U. S. Auto Club driver, assisted Jim Feller with Feller's sprinter. Knepner is owner of the car which qualified for the feature event but did not run because, as Knepner explained, Feller was driving here Sunday to test the car only and find out what adjustments need to be made.

Wib Spalding of Pontoon Beach will return Friday night to attempt to win his second late model feature in a row as he recorded an easy victory in the event Sunday.

He also claimed third in the super-sprint feature here and will be competing in both classes this week. The late model win gave him the lead in the points in that division over Bobby Stanton of East Alton and he retained his place in the sprint point standings.

Sunday night's race awarded double points to drivers in both divisions. Qualifications for tomorrow's program will begin at 7 p.m. with heat events slated for 8:30.

Promoter Ralph Kiesling announced at Sunday's race that a special Jubilee race will be held here Aug. 29 as part of Granite City's Diamond Jubilee celebration. The program will include a 75-lap super-sprint feature for a $5,000 purse.

Entries are expected to include the top drivers from Alton and he retained his place in the sprint point standings.

U. S. Team Favored in Ryder Matches in Area

By FRANK MACOMBER
Copley News Service

The 10 Sam Ryder would like it if he could be at the Old Watson Country Club in Ladue, Mo., just outside St. Louis, from Sept. 16 through 18.

That's the place and those are the dates for the Ryder Cup matches, played every other year between the 12 top-ranked American professional golfers and a 12-man team representing Britain.

The traditional Ryder Cup competition was inaugurated in 1927 at Worcester, Mass., where the U. S. team won over the Redcoats, 9½ to 2½.

Yet the matches had their origin a year earlier after an American-British professional rivalry in England witnessed by a wealthy British seed named Samuel A. Ryder.

An avid amateur golfer, Ryder was so intrigued by the 1926 matches — won by the British, 13½ to 1½ — he offered to donate a solid gold trophy bearing his name, to be fought over in a series of matches between the professionals of the two nations.

Two-Day Competition
Ryder specified, among other provisions, that the matches consist of two days of play, the first devoted to foursomes, the second to single matches.

He insisted members of the competing teams had to be members of their respective professional associations and native-born citizens of the country they represented.

While the format has been changed slightly, most of Sam Ryder's wishes still are fulfilled every two years. The matches have been played every other year since 1927, except for those from 1937 through 1946, when World War II intervened.

Since 1927, the United States has won every Ryder Cup match played in this country and is favored again this year at Old Watson.

It also won on British soil in 1937, 1949, 1963, 1961 and 1965, to run the American list of victories to 14 in 18 matches. The Brits played at home in 1929, 1933 and 1967.

In 1960 came the first tie when the Americans invaded Britain and Jack Nicklaus had to finish even with Tony Jacklin in the last match to give the U. S. team a 16-16 deadlock.

Until 1961, the Ryder Cup competition was comprised of four foursome matches one day and eight singles matches the next, each at 36 holes, as Ryder had decided.

Then the format was changed to provide for four 18-hole foursomes the opening morning and four more in the afternoon, eight 12-hole singles the morning of the second day and eight more in the afternoon.

As in the past, one point was at stake in each match, so the total number of points was doubled.

In 1963, for the first time, a day of four-ball matches was added to spur new interest in the competition. That brought the point total to 32.

This year the American Ryder Cup roster reads like a Who's Who of pro golf, the veteran Jay Hebert as non-playing captain.

In the order of the Ryder Cup points they built up in tournament rivalry since the 1970 PGA Championship, the U. S. team members include Nicklaus, Lee Trevino, Billy Casper, Miller Barber, Frank Beard, Gene Littler, Charles Coody, Arnold Palmer, Dave Stockton, J. C. Snead, Gardner Dickinson and Byron Rudolph.

The 12th member named out by Gibby Gilbert by only a fraction of a point in the Ryder Cup standings.

Lineup of Superstars
Seldom, even in the 1930s and 1940s when such golfing giants as Sam Snead, Byron Rudolph and Ben Hogan were Ryder Cup team members, has there been such an array of super-golfers on the American squad.

Each has won at least one tournament in the last year and most have won twice or more. Nicklaus, Trevino, Littler, Coody and Palmer have been playing well recently and each of the others is capable of rising to the occasion when they hear the cry: "The British are coming!"

Tony Jacklin, the 1970 American PGA champion, is the only widely known golfer on the British Ryder Cup contingent this year.

Yet some of the others are playing better golf than Tony Beasley in the last few months on the U. S. tour.

Karen Reisinger Leaving for Jr. Olympic National Championships

Karen Reisinger, 14, champion swimmer from Granite City, will travel to the U. S. Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, Colo., reaching there by Monday. The occasion of her trip to the Rocky Mountain area is the fifth annual National AAU Junior Olympic Championships, which will take place Aug. 9-15.

She won the right to represent the Kansas-Oklahoma-Arkansas-Missouri areas by capturing the Region VIII Junior Olympic Championships in the 200m medley and 100m butterfly events July 29 at Creekside Park, Fort Smith, Ark.

Prior to that she had been victorious in Ozark AAU Association Junior Olympic Championships. The top finishers at that meet were eligible to compete in the regional finals.

13-Sport Program
The AAU Junior Olympic program is conducted each year throughout the 58-district associations of the AAU across the nation.
Competition in 13 Olympic sports—basketball, boxing, gymnastics, judo, jujitsu, swimming and diving, synchronized swimming, track and field, water polo, weightlifting and wrestling—is permitted under an agreement with the United States Olympic Committee (USOC), which granted the

KAREN REISINGER

AAU the right to use the name "Junior Olympic" in 1949.

The program is designed to foster age-group competition by boys and girls up to the age of eighteen and to instill in them the virtues of the Olympic creed—fairness, decency, good sportsmanship and the spirit of competition.

Only competitions in swimming, diving, track and field, judo and gymnastics are included at the National AAU Junior Olympic Championships. Karen will join more than 550 other competitors from across the continental U. S. and Hawaii when they arrive at Colorado Springs, site of the Air Force Academy.

Approximately 300 male competitors will be housed in the Cadet Dormitory on the Academy grounds. The girls will stay at dormitories on the campus of Colorado College in Colorado Springs.

Competition for this year's events will center around three facilities on the 18,000-acre campus ten miles north of Colorado Springs. The all-weather rubberized asphalt track will be the site of the boys' and girls' track and field competition.

Swimming, diving and judo will take place in the Cadet Gymnasium, a three-level structure with 330,000 square feet of competition space. The two-day gymnastics activities will be held in the Cadet Field House, a multi-purpose, five-acre structure completed in 1968.

Former Olympians who have competed in the AAU Junior Olympics are Rafer Johnson, winner of the gold medal for the decathlon at the Rome Olympics in 1960; John Peneff, first man to pole vault 17 feet; Dan Schuster, winner of six Olympic gold medals; and John Kinsella, Olympic medalist at the 1960 Rome Olympics. The gold medal for the recipient of the 1970 James E. Sullivan Memorial Trophy for the Outstanding Amateur Athlete in the U. S.

Each member of the Paddler team captured three individual first-place awards and two relay events.

MORE ABOUT

Levee District

also has a point in James Spanos of East St. Louis, a former employee of the engineering department, as an assessor to bring his campaign, on foot, into Granite City Saturday after walking through Edwardsville Friday.

The levee board yesterday also approved a motion to demand that the East St. Louis & Interurban Water Co. assume full responsibility for repair of four riverfront water tunnels. The levee district already has repaired two of the tunnels at a cost of about $180,000. The other two remain to be repaired and still are on a "must" list of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

It was the awarding of contracts for repair of the two tunnels that resulted in indictment of the president four members of the levee board on charges of misconduct in office. They awarded a contract for $180,000 for cleaning and repair of the two tunnels, allegedly without bidding and without a performance bond.

Two years ago the water company agreed to assume half of the cost of the tunnel repairs, but later refused to pay any part of the cost on grounds that the work did not conform to contract with the levee district.

Lifesaving Class
To Begin Monday
Lifesaving lessons will be given at the Wilson Park pool starting at 9 a.m. Monday.

The course will be free for park district residents except for a $1 insurance fee and a $1 charge for the Red Cross lifesaving manual.

Instructors for the one week class will be Dave Nolan and Cathy Robertson.

Bill's Auto Drowns Orphans
Bill's Auto Body, slamming 35 hits, showed no mercy in drowning the Orphans 25-9 in the Women's Classic A Softball League Wednesday at Wilson Park.

Aiding the Bill's effort were home runs by Debbie Sparks, Jo Marie Harding and Carol Volkmar, while Carolyn Sinclair tagged one for the Orphans.

Sammy's stopped the Sinclair Fire Department 19-12 behind circuit breakers by Dixie James and Eileen Bodi and two triples by Paula Bledsoe.

Jacobson's defeated Kirby 16-9, outbidding the lefties 26 to 14. Leading the hitting for Jake's was Ruth Noeth and Sheryl Law with home runs and Mary Uram and Noeth with triples.

Kevin Colligan smashed two four baggers for Miles Lab in an 18-4 victory over Inn Between in Classic Eastern action Wednesday at Worthen Park.

In other Classic Eastern play Keith's beat Kuberski 17-6 and Davis Funeral Home dented Hooks 10-6.

In the High School Girls play-off games Diamond Plating trimmed Helpee Seife 12-4, and Ed Moore Jr. and Industrially Supply fought nine innings, with Moore coming out top 10-7.

Midtown Trounces Elks 18-9
Midtown Pharmacy trounced the Elks 18-9 on a 2-7 hit attack featuring three home runs by Jim Reiter and two by Phil Kendall in 35 and Over Softball League Monday at Worthen Park.

Four triples and a round tripper for Tony & Joe's spelled defeat for American Legion 13 by a 23-12 count. Ron Hemeyer hit the homers, and the three-baggers were tagged by Frank Scaradale, Babe Ameling and Poots Schwendeman.

A homer in the bottom of the third frame by Ralph Morris gave Local 16 a 16-15 edge over Jacobson's. Harold Pratt and Bobby Eddleman each tripled for the winners and Bob Garland got a three-bagger for Jake's.

Walker to Walk Through GC Saturday

Dan Walker of Chicago, the walking candidate for governor, will bring his campaign, on foot, into Granite City Saturday after walking through Edwardsville Friday.

Walker plans to spend Friday night at the Holiday Inn at Sunset Hill and will begin the walk to Granite City at 8:30 a.m. Yesterday he walked 16 miles through Belleville, campaigning and talking to residents along the route.

A final route has not been set, but campaign managers indicate Walker will likely walk along Old Route 66 into Mitchell and south on Route 203 (Nameoki Road) to Madison Avenue and into the downtown area.

Walker began his campaign "stroll" through the state at the southern tip and plans to walk the length of the state to Chicago.

Dispute Halts Brick Work at School Site

Brick work at the Schaefer tract middle school on Old Alton Road has been halted by a union dispute, but steelwork and other construction work is continuing.

B. J. Davis, superintendent of Granite City schools, reported today.

The Worthen Brick Contracting Co. workers called in sick Monday after the company failed to reach an agreement with the Schaefer Construction Co. of Collinsville, general contractors, on the project.

While the bricklayers are off the job, Davis said, steel laying and roofing work will proceed. The delay in brick work is not expected to seriously affect completion schedule on the project, Davis said.

Portell said the pump at Station Five on Faith Avenue now has a capacity of from 200 to 300 gallons per minute.

didn't drink gas like water. Or like water. Or, for that matter, didn't even drink water.

Some change people even liked the idea that it was strange looking.

In fact, Detroit car makers now like the idea of a Volkswagen so much that they decided to make their own.

And even with all those new small cars around, the fate of the bug is still secure.

Rev. Dishon Appointed Pastor at St. Paul Church of the Nazarene

The Rev. Clarence Dishon has arrived to begin his ministry at St. Paul Church of the Nazarene, 4300 Maryville Road. He was appointed to succeed the Rev. G. M. Pace, who retired this week.

The new pastor, his wife and their daughter, Miss Frances Dishon, will reside on Deborah Court. Mrs. Dishon will begin her sophomore year at Olivette Nazarene College in Kankakee this September.

The Rev. Dishon attended God's Bible School and College in Cincinnati, Ohio. He started his ministry at 17 years of age and was ordained an Elder in the Church of the Nazarene in 1945 at Lexington, Ky., by Dr. R. T. Williams, general superintendent of the church.

His years of service in the ministry have taken the Rev. Dishon to various communities throughout the central mid-western states. He spent 16 years in Kentucky, serving at Bowling Green, Paducah, Irvine and Louisville and nine years in Indianapolis, Ind., and Carbondale, Ill.

The minister's last pastorate was at the First Church of the Nazarene in Carbondale.

The Rev. Dishon will offer his first message at the local church at 9:45 a.m. Sunday. All members and friends of the St. Paul Church of the Nazarene are invited to attend the welcoming service, church officials said today.

The Rev. G. M. Pace will have his future home in Wood River.

Decor—Paint Flatiron to Restore; Accessorize for Distinctive Room

By BARBARA HARTUNG
Copley News Service

Q. Please suggest a method to restore an old flatiron. The iron is very badly rusted and is an antique. Our question is, should we buy special rust-removing agents or spray paint it black and use it as a door stop? I tried using steel wool very lightly but it just did not help. Would the iron really lose its value if we spray painted it?

A. I am advised that your iron would not lose its value if you spray painted it. Why not use rust remover on it and spray it?

Accessories Needed

Q. We have a living room 11 by 11 feet with a bay window draped with print of blue, green and aqua flowers (81 inches long). Our television stands in front of the window. Our wall-to-wall rug is blue, green and aqua tweed.

We have a leaf green divan and chair in vinyl with mahogany-color legs, a two-tier table which sits in a corner with the sofa on one side and green chair on the other, and a black chair with mahogany legs. We also have a blue-green lamp. Walls are painted beige with white woodwork. It is now just a room. Can you give it a little attractive?

A. It sounds like you have done a good job of coordinating and planning your furniture, your rug, draperies and walls. I would imagine that what you need to do now is tie the room together is to accessorize. That's what makes a room attractive and personal and use rust remover on it and your guests.

Accessorizing a home is like accessorizing a dress. The wrong shoes, handbag, hat or jewelry, not enough of one or too much of another destroys the effect of the best-designed dress. Similarly, with a home, you can make or break your room with accessories.

By accessories I mean lamps, vases for plants, wastebaskets, pillows, pictures and wall treatments of all kinds, ash trays, with the sofa on one side and small accent pieces of furniture.

ture, sculpture, rugs, books, paperweights, candlesticks and all manner of other collectables.

If you have enough funds that money is little object, then you quite naturally can buy better-quality accessories. However, if you must consider a budget, don't feel discouraged. Rather, use your money to best advantage by buying only a few really good things. And then fill in with inexpensive things.

For example, you might consider a handsome and large wall clock. An old one could lend a great deal of charm and warmth and could be a focal point for a full arrangement of other less-expensive prints, biobots and paintings.

To fill in, consider buying a book (the large art books for $5 or $6) of Piranesi's drawings or modern prints or whatever you especially like. Clip out a half-dozen or more illustrations if you have the space, buy inexpensive frames, a small cutting knife, some blue or green or another color, if you wish—cardboard for matting and do yourself a wall. Paint the frames if you think that would improve them. Use pictures from magazines or posters.

Include books in your room or a bookshelf with figurines, books and other favorite objects. Baskets full of green living plants, larger planters for bigger sprays of greenery, copper, brass and ceramic bowls of fruit and flowers help, too.

Don't forget about pillows as a good tool — to give you a variety of textures which you could probably use if both sofa and chair are vinyl. And candles are also a good decorating device. Also, why not use your tier table to one side of your divan or chair and place a large, squared table in its place.

This could hold lamp, ash tray, flowers, etc.

And you really need a table or some piece of furniture by each seating piece for a lamp unless you have another type of lighting. Small decorative pieces of furniture such as tables, chests and cabinets can of their own merit add to your room as well as hold lamps and other items.

As a word of advice, go slowly and add a few things at a time in as good quality in material and design as you can afford. Don't let the price of a buy a bunch of cheap bric-a-brac or cute things you'll tire of and just waste money on. Try first to use what you have — grandmother's old pitcher, photographs of a special trip you took, pictures of your youngsters, something your favorite niece made for you years ago. These are the things which frequently bring the greatest joy and meaning to the place we call home.

Q. Does the platter I have with a globe on the back and the words "Severn," "England," and "Alfred Meakin" have any value? How old is it?

A. Severn refers to the pattern. Alfred Meakin was a manufacturer of good ironstone in England (it was not extremely costly, however). Because it says England on the platter, you know it must have been made after 1801.

Water Tank Filled To Test Structure

The filling of a new 2-million-gallon water storage tank at Namsok and Pontoon Roads was begun Wednesday by the East St. Louis & Interurban Water Co. with the completion of the project expected tomorrow, according to Robert Hillard, water company district manager.

The tank and booster station was constructed by the water company to provide a better water pressure in the Tri-Cities area.

Hillard said the steel tank is complete except for the roof and is being filled to test for structural soundness. The water will be left in the tank about a month during which time corrections can be made if necessary. If no problems arise, the tank will be emptied, painted inside and outside and the roof fitted.

The entire project which cost $488,000 is expected to be completed by Oct. 1.

Madison Man Arrested On Drug Sale Charge

Vance Gash, 21, of 306a Washington Ave., Madison, and a Webster Groves, Mo., man were charged with illegal sale of a narcotic drug (marijuana) after they were arrested in St. Louis Tuesday.

Gash, an employee of Stix, Baer & Fuller department store, was charged with selling an ounce of marijuana to an undercover agent of the Bureau of Investigation, vice division, in a trailer near the north loading dock of the department store July 31. The agent worked two weeks at the department store as an elevator operator before allegedly purchasing the marijuana from Gash.

Police said Gash then introduced the agent to Samuel Roberts, 24, of Webster Groves, who sold the officer one pound of marijuana for $200 in Roberts' car near the store at 1:20 p.m. Tuesday. Roberts was arrested in the car and Gash was arrested on the loading dock 10 minutes later.

Webster Groves police searched Roberts' apartment after the arrest and said they found five bags of marijuana and assorted narcotics equipment at the apartment.

Task Force Discusses Rapid Transit System

Plans for the St. Louis Rapid Transit Authority were discussed by Eugene G. Moody, executive director of the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council, during a transportation task force meeting yesterday at the council's East St. Louis office.

Moody discussed the history of rapid transit and urged that a St. Louis rapid transit system be included in the present Missouri transportation bond issue.

He mentioned that planning for the system has not yet included the possibility of serving a proposed bi-state airport, if constructed near Waterloo, Ill., and said that if the site for the airport is finalized, an overhaul of the plans will be necessary to include the facility.

Chicago Man Charged After House Burglary

A Chicago man, 50, was arrested by Madison County sheriff's deputies following a burglary at the home of Mike Cuvar, 4050 Namsok Road, reported to county authorities at 2:10 p.m. Tuesday.

The two deputies, who were on a stakeout at Namsok and Maryville Roads, were informed by two unidentified men that a suspect in a yellow shirt was seen running along Namsok Road.

The deputies chased the man and arrested Charles William Phillips, who was charged with burglary. They said he resisted arrest and was handcuffed. Cuvar reported that four $5 bills and four $1 bills were missing from his home. Entry was gained by breaking out a wood door on the west side of the house.

A partnership with his son-in-law to operate the Tri-City Tent & Awning Co. He retired about 1950. After the death of his wife in 1945, he resided with his daughter, Helen, until moving to the Masonic Home.

Six SIU-Staffers Named Top Educators

Six faculty members at Southern Illinois University-Southwestern have been chosen outstanding educators of America for 1971. Their names and biographies will appear in the 1971 edition of Outstanding Educators of America.

They are Doris Edwards and Erna Kneumerschmidt of St. Louis, members of the Nursing Division; Prof. James C. Austin and George W. Linden of Collinsville, Humanities Division; Prof. Ik-Ju Kang, Edwardsville, Science and Technology; and Prof. Michael C. Astour, Collinsville, Social Sciences Division.

Nominations for the annual awards are made by officials of colleges and universities, including presidents, deans and department heads. Guidelines for selection include the educators' talents in the classroom, contributions to research, administrative abilities, civic service and professional recognition.

ON S. S. HOPE. Dr. Bruno Kwapis, professor and chairman of the Department of Oral Surgery at the Southern Illinois University School of Dental Medicine, Southwestern campus, spent two months as a member of the medical staff of the hospital

Campus Oral Surgeon Describes Service Aboard SS Hope

For Dr. Bruno Kwapis, oral surgeon, the island of Jamaica will always have special meaning.

This is something new for the Belleville resident who is professor and chairman of the oral surgery department at the Southern Illinois University-Southwestern School of Dental Medicine.

He knows the people of Jamaica. That's the difference. Dr. Kwapis was one of 25 doctors who were invited to serve as rotating staff from May 15 to July 15 on the S. S. Hope, a hospital ship operated by the People-to-People Health Foundation, an American non-profit organization.

The ship first sailed in 1960 to Indonesia and Vietnam. Eleven years and eight countries later the ship and its medical staff and crew are continuing to enjoy success. This is not without foundation, said Dr. Kwapis.

One of the basic reasons the HOPE continues to make friends in foreign ports is that it provides teaching as well as service facilities. The ship comes to a country on invitation. An advance medical team works with the local professionals and government officials before the ship arrives.

Treatment of patients by S. S. Hope staff may take place in the country's regular hospitals as well as on board ship. Doctors and nurses and technicians from the host country work beside and with the Hope staff in treatment of the people. A land base facility is established and run by Hope personnel to carry on treatment after the ship's 10-month stay.

Persons selected for rotating residency on the ship must be qualified to teach as well as have experience in private practice in the United States.

A regular education program continues throughout the stay of the Hope and all the medical staff participate in either formal or informal teaching sessions.

In addition to working with oral surgeons from Jamaica, Dr. Kwapis found time to present a series of five lectures to the Jamaica Dental Society during his tour.

Employed by Government

He said the dental professionals were mostly English or Canadian trained and are employed by the government. For the Jamaican population dental service is provided by the government. But, according to Dr. Kwapis, because of the demands of time and numbers of patients, the dental medicine service is limited to extraction of teeth. There is no restorative work done, he said. However, there are some private practices in existence in the larger cities for patients who can afford the service. The majority of the Jamaicans live at poverty level.

During his work with Hope Dr. Kwapis, along with three other oral surgeons, handled 50 oral maxillo-facial cases at the hospital facilities of Hope and the 400-bed Kingston Public Hospital, a government facility.

"The work was professionally stimulating and challenging and I particularly enjoyed my association with the Jamaican practitioners and the rest of the medical staff on Hope. You can imagine the need for oral surgery and other dental care is tremendous in Jamaica. Sugar cane, for example, is available on every street corner for snacks, and there are no on-going preventive programs and many Jamaicans have never visited a dentist or dental specialist before the Hope came to the island," Dr. Kwapis said.

Sensitivity, Rewards

The greatest personal benefit the experience cited by the oral surgeon was his own development of sensitivity to black people and the rewards of experiencing a culture different from his own.

"I guess," the SIU-SW faculty member added, "serving on the Hope satisfied a personal desire to do a little missionary work."

The Hope has a 168-bed hospital, and all the facilities necessary in medical treatment, from surgery to physical therapy. In addition, there are living facilities for the medical team, administrators of the program and maritime crew.

Between 100 and 200 health care personnel, from technician through surgeon, are active in the Jamaican floating hospital. By the end of the Hope's 10-month stay in October it is estimated that 350 nursing counterparts will have participated in medical education programs on board. The maritime crew alone numbers 100 and there are 80 or more laborers involved in operating the hospital.

The ship carries all the medical and domestic supplies it needs for a 10-month stay. Below deck there are some 7,000 tons of supplies. Also in the storage area is the "iron cow," a machine that takes sea water, distills it, mixes it with prepared milk products and coconut oil to make enough milk for patients, staff and crew.

HE'S ONLY JUST BEGUN. Paul Williams has written such hits as "We've Only Just Begun," "Rainy Days and Mondays," "Cried Like a Baby" and "Out in the Country."

'Wings' Is a New Step in Music, Paul Williams Says

By JUDY HUGG
Copley News Service

During the mid-sixties, the fashionable thing to do was to write, compose and perform your own songs.

However, this trend, started by the Beatles and Bob Dylan, has loosened up a bit and performers have started looking for help with their material from the outside.

From the outside, enter Paul Williams, who in the last eight months has written such hit songs as "We've Only Just Begun," "Rainy Days and Mondays," "Cried Like a Baby," and "Out in the Country" for The Carpenters.

He also wrote Bobby Sherman's big hit "Cried Like a Baby," and "Out in the Country" for The Carpenters.

Perhaps the most remarkable thing about Paul's songs is their ability to bridge the generation gap musically.

In the raucous and often jarring world of hard rock, soul and gospel, he has established himself as one of the top men in the youth-dominated pop-music field with lyrics characterized by an intimate, personal honesty and a vivid portrayal of daily reality.

Paul's distinctive style is brought to life on a new album released by A & M Records called "Wings." The lyrics to this pop symphony were written entirely by Paul and the music composed by France's premier composer, Michel Colombier.

"Wings" is a new step in music and it's of interest to me to see what other musicians' writers' and critics' reactions will be," Paul said in a recent interview.

"It will be natural for people to compare the album to Jesus Christ Superstar." However lyrically speaking, "Wings" is nonreligious and yet I think it's very spiritual."

Paul, who prefers to write the lyrics to the already composed music, went after "Wings" as though he were writing a book of poetry, and found that as he progressed he began to grasp a definite feeling.

"I reached the point where I knew exactly what the symphony meant to me lyrically," he said.

"Wings" is the representation of freedom to mankind and deals with his frustrations, fears and the imaginary chains that he manages to wrap around himself through boredom, prejudice and ignorance.

"You know, just as man creates his own cages, he is capable of having wings and creating his own freedom."

Originally Paul's ambition was to become an actor, but he claims that "it was the best kept secret in Hollywood."

Nonetheless, he did get a chance to play everything from a boy genius in "The Loved One" to an employment counselor in "Watermelon Man."

"It was boring, you know, a lot of sitting and waiting for the phone to ring, so in the interim I began writing and found out that I was really a songwriter and not an actor."

His background ranges from writing comedy for Mort Sahl to songs with Dick Rose and Roger Nichols, then branching out on his own to write more than 100 in the last four years.

His venture with Colombier and "Wings" was a rewarding one.

In Paris and in Los Angeles, where the platter was cut, they recorded both on 16 and 18 track at the same time, using as many as 150 musicians and singers at one time.

As for future plans, Paul has signed with A&M Records to make a couple of platters, which will incorporate his writing along with his singing talents.

A book which he has already started must be finished and he plans on moving to England to live one of these days.

"I love England and would like to make it my home," he said. "I noticed an incredible difference between the people here and there."

There they seem to have a more friendly attitude. For example, I have very long hair and go anywhere without feeling the need to run for my life.

"But most of my future will be taken up in writing songs. I'd rather do that than anything else in the world... well, you know, within reason, because a man doesn't live by bread alone."

All About Albums

"Leon Russell and the Sheltered People," (Capitol) is an album that will turn on even the most casual contemporary blues-rock fan.

Russell combines bluesy, easy-going love songs with a smashing "right on" style that is reminiscent of a mellow Joe Cocker.

Most of the songs on the album are written by Russell, but perhaps the best is the Dylan song, "It's A Hard Rain Gonna Fall," which takes on a new style and rhythm from the instruments of Leon, backed by the Sheltered People, and helps to make the album a success.

Eddie Gorme's "It Was A Good Time," released by MGM, Personnel from the National Honor Society will assist in the conference. Leaders include Miss Judy Riedelberger, former High School Student Council president from Venice.

Two Retiring Officers Honored at Venice

Two retiring Venice police officers, Homer "Curly" Essington and George W. Rhodes, were honored at a party in the Venice city garage shooting range Monday evening.

About 40 policemen, city officials, and city employees attended to wish the two men a happy retirement. Checks for $300 from the retirement fund were presented to each of the former policemen and Mayor John E. Lee spoke, praising them for their service to the city. Food and refreshments were served.

Washington, who resides at 529 Washington Ave., retired on disability after 18 years with the department, and Rhodes, who now lives in East St. Louis, served 27 years. Both retirements were effective Aug. 1.

MR. AND MRS. GREGORY DICKERMAN. They were married at Mt. Zion General Baptist Church. The bride is the former Miss Sandra Anita Failoni, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Failoni, 4840 Warnock Ave.

Miss Sandra Failoni, Gregory Dickerman Wed

White summer flowers on the altar and white bows on the pews down the aisle provided the setting for the candlelight wedding July 31 at Mt. Zion General Baptist Church of Miss Sandra Anita Failoni, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Failoni, 4840 Warnock Ave., and Gregory Bruce Dickerman, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dickerman, 4720 Warnock Ave.

The Rev. Leo Perkins heard the vows of the couple at 8 o'clock and a reception was held afterward in the church social rooms.

The organist, Ken Perkins, accompanied the vocalist, Mrs. June Perkins, as she sang the Lord's Prayer and "Savior Like A Shepherd Lead Us." The couple knelt to receive Communion.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a long gown of white tulle and Chantilly lace over satin. It was fashioned with a tight bodice, featuring a scalloped neckline and long wrist-pointed sleeves. She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses, baby breath and variegated ivy.

Miss Rolanda Failoni, a sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and Miss Kathy Lincoln and Miss Martine Feltmeyer were bridesmaids. The former wore pink and the bridesmaids were in aqua and yellow. The gowns had long, sheer sleeves, embroidered bodices and full skirts.

Children's Program to Conclude St. John Lutheran Bible School

Closing exercises for youngsters who participated in the Vacation Bible School at St. John Lutheran Church, St. Clair and Dale avenues, will take place at 7 o'clock this evening at the church, the Rev. Samuel Boda, pastor, has announced.

Enrollment in the two-week series of daily Bible school sessions totaled 140 children who will demonstrate various facets of the summer religious training classes at tonight's program. Handicraft projects made by the children in connection with Bible stories will be displayed.

"Talking With God" was the theme of the 1971 Vacation Bible School. The Rev. Boda said the materials used were produced by Concordia Publishing House in St. Louis and included textbooks, handcraft equipment, hymn sheets and color filmstrips. The latter item was featured in the daily Bible stories.

Attendance certificates will be given the children by their teachers at this evening's program and the pastor will present certificates of appreciation to members of the teaching staff.

An inspection tour of the handwork displays, to be exhibited in the church fellowship hall, and a social hour with refreshments served will conclude the program. The St. John's Young People's Society length bouquets in colors to match their gowns. A little flower girl, Jackie Morlock, was in white. Her dress was patterned after the bride's gown and she carried a basket of multi-colored flowers. Joey Morlock served as ring bearer.

Steve Horvath was best man and two brothers of the bridegroom, Jay and Ron Dickerman, were groomsmen. The guests were seated by another brother, Rod Dickerman, and Bruce Sims, Mike Dillard and Clarence Stephens, ushers.

The candies were lighted by Toni and Nina Failoni, sisters of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Failoni wore a pink coat and dress ensemble with white accessories. The bridegroom's mother was in a blue two-piece suit and blue accessories. Both wore white orchid corsages.

Mary Lincoln and Sheila Browning presided over the guest book. Others assisting at the reception were Mrs. Katherine Perkins, Rhonda A. Browning, Mrs. Edith Feltmeyer, Mrs. Lorene Fox, Mrs. Wilma Lowery, Mrs. Hazel Knuckles, Mrs. Carol Feltmeyer and Mrs. Peggy Browning.

After a honeymoon in Arkansas the newlyweds will live at 4840 Warnock Ave. Both young people are graduates of The Granite City High School and the bridegroom is employed by the Granite City Steel Co.

BEST OF TWO WORLDS. Two slides were used to create this picture of a Chinese sampan at sea. The boat picture was made off the coast of Hong Kong, from the deck of a Chinese tourist junk. The "sunburst" broke through the clouds off the coast of Hawaii and was shot from a low-flying airplane. The two slides produced an exhibition slide and a 16x20-inch exhibition monochrome print was made from it.

Copley News Service

That photographer standing out in the middle of a field with his camera pointed at a blank blue sky isn't crazy — he is a creative artist gathering material.

Thin "blue sky" slides — normally about two stops overexposed — can be used as "neutral density filters" to save many slides that are just a bit too light and with no color in the sky.

The "blue" acts like black to intensify the other colors in the slide while adding a bit of color in the blank areas.

The monochrome worker often is thrilled by being able to print clouds into a picture. The slide maker simply mounts two slides together, one of clouds and the other his picture.

Montages of every description are just as easy and have led to a whole series of "special treatments," by which the slide worker actually creates pictures that do not exist.

One of the more common is the "derivation," where a slide is printed in contact with what is really a graphic arts material, lithographic film.

Litho film eliminates all middle tones, and retains only the extreme whites and blacks.

Thus a slide printed on litho produces a litho "negative" in which all highlights are totally black.

When the two pieces of film are bound together — usually in glass — the picture shows dramatic black skies, or eliminates all highlights.

There has been a surge of diazochromes, too, in competition photography in recent years — using another graphic arts material except in a variety of colors.

It is a "direct positive" material so the photographer still makes his litho-negative, then prints that negative on red, or yellow, or green, or whatever color he wants to bind with the slide.

All of these techniques require that the original negative be generally much lighter — or overexposed — than the normal slide.

One photographer habitually makes an overexposed slide along with the one which he makes normally so he will have the material with which to work.

Actually, of course, the use of montages to produce perfectly natural-looking pictures is one which appeals to most photographers.

It can be done in the camera — or in the lighted workroom over a light box so you can see what you are doing.

Only simple equipment is required. A light and a piece of ground glass suspended over a couple of books can provide a good "light box" on which to work.

A good magnifying glass helps materially. And a good eight-power glass which can be obtained inexpensively at a photo supply store should be used before "final binding."

Actually, some workers deliberately bind the various elements in the picture because the lines formed do create a third-dimensional bas-relief effect which is quite effective.

But the point is that the photographer need not accept his slides as the last word in the kind of pictures he will present — and anyone who knows anything about the techniques available doesn't believe that a photographer is always truthful.

DENNIS L. KELLEY
Dennis L. Kelley Wins Navy Honors

Petty Officer Third Class Dennis L. Kelley, USN, has been awarded the Navy Achievement Medal and Combat Distinguished Device as the result of outstanding service during his fourth tour of duty in Vietnam.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Kelley, 2912 Buxton Ave. and has been in the Navy for the past eight years.

Petty Officer Kelley, who presently is at home on leave with his wife, the former Ellen Price, and two children, Dennis Jr., 10 months old, and Denise, 4, re-enlisted June 12 for another six years.

The Navy Citation authorized by J. H. King Jr., Vice-Admiral, U. S. Navy, Commander U. S. Naval Forces, Vietnam, read in part:

"For professional achievement while serving with friendly forces engaged in armed conflict against the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong communist aggressors in the Republic of Vietnam. While serving as a gunner with Strike Assault Boat Squadron Two Zero, Petty Officer Kelley participated in 189 combat patrols and engaged the enemy in two fire fights.

"During those patrols, he boarded and searched numerous junks and sampans, interdicted cross-river traffic, enforced territory and provided fire support for besieged units and outposts.

"In addition, he conducted psychological warfare operations and civic action programs. His long arduous hours, including particularly strenuous periods on Operations Barrier Reef and Tran Hung Dao VII, were directly responsible for the constant state of readiness of his boat."

Petty Officer Kelley and his family will depart next week for Long Beach, Calif. where they will make their home while he is stationed aboard the USS Hector.

Girl on Bike Struck

Brenda Ryan, 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ryan of Edwardsville, was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital after her bicycle was struck by an auto. She was treated for abrasions to the back and for a swollen face and was released following x-rays.

Letters to Hanoi Urged by United Fund Official

Letters suggesting humane treatment of American prisoners of war were urged today by Robert McCormick, director of AFL-CIO Community Services of the Tri-Cities Area United Fund.

He related that "the American trade union movement is deeply concerned by North Vietnam's continued violation of the 1949 Geneva Convention and denial of basic rights to American prisoners of war in Indochina."

"None of us can lose sight of these men and their families—the tragic victims of war. The agony of not knowing the fate of American men missing in action or presumed captured is heavy for their families, their friends and their fellow countrymen."

"Basic human dignity demands that North Vietnam fulfill its commitment to the Geneva Convention by:

"1. Identifying prisoners.
"2. Guaranteeing their humane treatment.
"3. Permitting prisoners to correspond regularly with their families."

"4. Allowing a neutral agent, such as the International Red Cross, to inspect prisons."

Could Expedite Peace

North Vietnamese recognition of its commitment to these principles would brighten the prospect for peace. It would also lay the groundwork for North Vietnamese acceptance of the American proposal to free all prisoners of war," McCormick said.

"The AFL-CIO supports the American Red Cross in urging all Americans to write to the President of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam, Hanoi, North Vietnam, expressing their concern for these men and urging they be treated humanely."

"If you have not done so yet, I am asking all members of labor in the Tri-City area to do so immediately. Contact the local Red Cross chapter for details at 452-7184."

Divers Recover Rifle In 2nd Canal Search

A return trip to the muddy depths of the Chain of Rocks Canal by a team of local scuba divers produced a 1906 .22 caliber Winchester rifle sought by Perry County law enforcement officers in the investigation of a murder case in Pinckneyville, Ill.

The initial search, lasting eight hours, was undertaken in the same general area by divers on July 11 at the request of Perry County officials.

The team failed at that time to recover the weapon, but discovered a safe containing approximately $2,000 worth of bonds and checks belonging to a physician in Clayton, Mo.

Rex Waggoner, armistice and coordinator of the Granite City Civil Defense Underwater Recovery Team, said the rifle was found Sunday by diver Richard A. Grizzard, a CD team member and certified scuba diving instructor.

Grizzard spent a total of 30 minutes in the water and only 10 minutes in the immediate area where the weapon was located near the Chain of Rocks Canal bridge.

The water was very murky and the bottom mud had partially covered the rifle which was found at a depth of 25 feet, close to the center channel, Waggoner said.

The civil defense scuba diving officer said a suspect in the murder case had revised his estimate on the rifle's location last week. The new search area was closer to the center of the canal than he had indicated when the previous search was carried out.

Waggoner gave credit for the quick recovery to a precise search pattern devised by Jack and John Adkinson of the East Side Divers Supply shop, 1340 Niedringhaus Ave., both of whom participated in the search.

Other team members taking part were Phil Davis, Mike Henson, Howard "Bud" Finley and Waggoner.

Charles "Diver" Delpe of Granite City and Okie Moore, both professional hardhat divers, directed the search with law enforcement officers.

City MFT Projects Exceed Available Funds

A warning that the Illinois Division of Highways could discontinue payments to contractors for Granite City street improvement projects at any time it determines the city has overspent its motor fuel tax income was sounded by Mayor Donald Partney Monday night as council members approved another round of motor fuel tax street improvements and appropriated funds for their construction.

At the same time the mayor suggested that council members agree upon a specific street program based upon available funds at the beginning of the fiscal year, rather than approve at random an unrestricted number of projects from time to time through the year.

He said the city now has in one stage or another the drawings and plans for street improvements that would cost a total of about $4 millions. "At the present time," he said, "the city has only about $700,000 in its motor fuel tax fund."

The city receives monthly allotments of motor fuel tax from the Illinois Division of Highways ranging from $30,000 to $35,000. If all of the projects now planned reached construction stage, the mayor said, the city would be indebted against its motor fuel tax fund for many years.

City Responsible

"I would like to remind the council that the state highway department can, at any time, determine we have overspent our motor fuel tax funds and shut off payments to the contractors for street jobs," the mayor said. "If that were to happen, the contractors could come back on the city for their money."

The mayor was joined by several aldermen in pointing out that unrestricted approval of a large number of projects, some of which may never reach construction stage, is resulting in payment of a large amount of engineering fees for jobs that never may be accomplished.

"The engineer (Research & Design Associates of St. Louis) receives its fees for preparing these projects regardless of whether they ever are constructed," the mayor said.

The mayor's remarks followed several verbal clashes between Aldermen Roy Poulos and Walter Nann over revision of a list of streets which are scheduled for overlay asphalt paving. A new resolution listing six streets and calling for a total appropriation of $50,000 in motor fuel tax funds was among improvement projects presented Monday night.

New Project Included Poulos pointed out that the new list included improvement of 19th street from Niedringhaus Avenue to the railroad tracks. He pointed out also that all of the other streets had been listed in resolutions approved previously. The Nineteenth street project is in Nann's Fifth Ward.

"I'd like to know what happened here," Poulos shouted. "These other streets were approved and ready to go. Now we have to hold up all of them so we can add 19th street. I've never heard 19th street mentioned before."

Nann reminded Poulos that in the July 26 meeting Nann obtained approval of a motion to improve 19th street.

"It sure got on the list fast," Poulos said. "Who prepares these resolutions... does Kleberger (Kenneth Kleberger of Research & Design Associates) make up these resolutions?" He was informed that was the case.

"Kleberger wasn't even here last week (July 26), and here we've already got a new list," Poulos said. "Somebody sure works fast."

The new resolution was approved by a unanimous vote, however, and will provide for resurfacing with asphalt of the 2000 block of Benton Avenue, the 2500 block of Washington Avenue, the 1000 block of 21st Street, and 1400 block of 21st Street, Fehling Road from Bradley to Fehling and 19th Street from Niedringhaus to the railroad tracks.

Other Projects Approved

Without further discussion, the council approved resolution authorizing improvement of Buxton Avenue from Victory Drive to St. Clair Avenue, with an appropriation of $155,000; Dewey Avenue from 24th to 25th Street with an appropriation of $10,000.

Amos Avenue from Primrose Avenue to Johnson Road with an appropriation of $10,000, and Manley Avenue from Primrose Avenue to Johnson Road with an appropriation of $10,000. These four projects include plans for installation of new paving at 30-foot widths with curb and guttering and drainage provisions.

Nann said he believed the $10,000 appropriations for the

2 Arrested After Tavern Robbery

A 26-year-old Granite City man and a 21-year-old Madison man were being held by Madison police today in the investigation of an armed robbery at Lucy's Lounge, 1415 Fifth St. Madison, at 12:40 a.m. today.

Lucille Whiteside, proprietor, said she was tending bar for about 10 customers when a man with a mask over his head entered, displayed a pistol, walked behind the bar and took about $50 from the open cash register. "He was saying something, but I couldn't understand what it was," Mrs. Whiteside said.

The robber left the tavern and fled west toward State Street, the tavern owner said.

Dewey, Amos and Manley Avenue projects are insufficient, noting that "it costs $20,000 to $25,000 per block to improve a street."

Two customers chased the man while another called police.

When officers arrived at the scene, the customers reported they chased the man into the Madison Iron & Metal Co. yard, 1408 Sixth St. Madison and Venice police cars surrounded the yard. Policemen entering the scrap yard found the sleeve of a sweat shirt with eyes and a nose hole cut in it, which was identified as the mask the robber wore.

As police searched the yard, a car drove through the alley between State Street and Madison Avenue in the 500 block. Police stopped the auto and questioned the driver and a passenger. Witnesses said the passenger looked like the robber and both men in the car were arrested in the investigation.

A short time later, officers found a blue shirt in the intersection of Sixth Street and Madison Avenue which was identified as the shirt the robber wore. Three torn particles of $1 bills were found in the pocket of the shirt that matched torn bills in the possession of

Dear Nana: Patients Take Advantage Of Dad's Phone at Retirement Home

By JACKIE STEFANICH
Copley News Service

Dear Nana:
Needless to say I was greatly relieved when my father decided for himself that it was time for him to go into a rest home. I wanted my father to have all the convenience possible so he'd be content and happy.

My father was allowed to have his own possessions such as his television, comfortable chair, pictures, etc. We also had a telephone installed for him. The owners have a restriction on their phone as it's a business phone and I guess the patients have taken advantage of it by talking too long at a time.

I can't say I blame the owners on this point as my father is the world's worst gossip. And he'll chit-chat with his old cronies by the hour. But it's his only way of communication now and I hated to see him not be able to have this pleasure.

However, the other patients surely have taken advantage of a good thing and my father. They use his phone more than he does. And my father is always having to call someone to his phone. This is hard on him as he has arthritis and can't walk very well anymore. I don't mind the other patients using his phone occasionally but when their families call and chit-chat, I think this is going too far.

Then last month I noticed there was a long-distance call on my father's phone bill. And it was in a state that neither he nor any of the family knows anyone. I questioned my father about this call but he hasn't any idea who made the call as there is no telephone in his room for him, not for the rest of the patients in the rest home.

Naturally, my father won't say anything to these people because he's such a good Joe and he wouldn't hurt anyone's feelings for the world. Any advice you can give me regarding this problem will be greatly appreciated.

Dear Telephonists:

I agree the other patients and their families are taking advantage of your father's telephone in his room and of his good nature.

However, if you don't want to mention this situation to the patients and their families, I'd suggest you have your father's telephone changed to an unlisted number and ask the telephone installer to leave the number off the dial face.

This way the other patients, can't receive any calls if they don't know the number to give to their families and friends.

Dear Nana:
This may sound like a strange request, but my young grandson has started a stamp collection. After reading your column I thought you must get a lot of different and unusual stamps. Would it be asking too much to have you send me the old envelopes which you undoubtedly throw away?

My grandson would be so thrilled to have some new stamps for his collection. And especially from someone who writes a column.

A Young Stamp Collector
I'm sorry but I don't throw away any envelopes. Each letter I receive is filed alphabetically according to subject for further reference.

Besides, I'm saving all the stamps from the mail I receive for my grandchildren. Through the years my husband and I have inherited coins and stamps that were collected by both sides of our families.

When our grandchildren are old enough to appreciate these collections, we're going to wrap them in two boxes and let our two daughters select one for their children.

However, I might consider exchanging some that are duplications. If you'll have your grandson send me a list of what he needs, I'll see if I can add some different stamps to his collection.

Dear Nana:
Would you please send me the information on your antique flower arrangement and the basket made from old Christmas cards mentioned in your column. Also any other hobby projects you might have. I've enclosed a self-addressed, stamped envelope for this material.

I'm a 57-year-old grandmother and I enjoy doing crafts of all kinds. And I pass along any new craft ideas I get to a friend of mine who's an activity director in a home for elderly people.

She's always on the lookout for new crafts for them to do. These people may not be able to do the whole project but she helps them complete these hobbies. I'm sure this is good therapy for the aged and I'm glad to help them in some way. It's a joy to see how happy and surprised these people are when they finish a project, realizing they could complete such a feat.

In the summer they have an open house and sell their craft items. At the present time they're trying to get enough money to buy a piano for their recreation room.

Thank you for your cooperation in this matter. I'm sure you know how important these projects are to the elderly.

Mrs. R. R.

Dear Mrs. R. R.:
I hope the elderly people in the home you're referring to enjoy the hobby projects I've mailed to you as much as the residents in my rest home have.

I'd like to wish your friend, the activity director, and her sister friends great success in their efforts to purchase a piano for their home.

Several years ago we had one given to our guests and I know how much they enjoyed hearing music from their past.

Thank you for remembering to enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope with your letter. I have so many requests for hobby projects from people who didn't enclose self-addressed, stamped envelopes that my pending file is bulging.

For those who haven't received material requested or a reply to letters sent to me, the above could be the reason. Therefore, I suggest you mail me a self-addressed, stamped envelope so I can clean out my pending file.

Questions on problems of the elderly may be sent to Copley News Service, P.O. Box 190, San Diego, Calif. 92112.

Arch Trains Set New Attendance Record

A new single-day attendance record for the Gateway Arch Passenger Transportation System was set July 31 when 5,967 persons made the trip to the top of the nation's tallest monument, a statistic tabulation showed Tuesday. John D. Kuziel, manager of the Arch Transportation System, said that the previous record of 5,739 was set on Aug. 1, 1970.

In less than four years of operation, 2,966,833 persons have made the trip to the top of the Arch. Bi-State Development Agency operates the Arch Transportation System under a 30-year cooperative agreement with the National Park Service.

The Arch Transportation System will operate through Sept. 6 from 8:30 a.m. until 9:30 p.m. seven days a week.

Regional Report--Airport, Steel, Treatment Plant News

Illinois Metro East Industrial Development Corporation

While the St. Louis Metropolitan Area Airport Authority was awaiting East-West Gateway Coordinating Council approval on its decision to apply for $85 million in federal funds for work on the new airport at Waterloo, Ronald Moore, state airport engineer, announced Missouri officials will propose a special airport taxing district in an effort to catch up with the Illinois airport plans backed by Illinois Gov. Ogilvie and St. Louis Mayor Alfonso J. Cervantes.

Creating a special district would first require approval by the Missouri General Assembly, followed by approval in an area-wide referendum.

Mayor Cervantes, repeating his endorsement of the Waterloo site, called the new proposal "totally unacceptable and ridiculous" and warned that a prolonged debate will mean the St. Louis area will take a back seat in the nation's airport development program.

In a move to give the people of the greater St. Louis area full access to the facts, the Airport Authority has hired a consulting firm to conduct a public information program on the proposed airport.

Granite City Steel Co. shareholders overwhelmingly approved a proposal to transform their company into a wholly-owned subsidiary of National Steel Corp. The only real hurdle remaining is approval of the merger by the U.S. Department of Justice.

Under the terms, each share of Granite City common stock will be converted into .4445 of a share of National. According to Nicholas P. Veeder, board chairman and chief executive officer, the merger will result in more jobs in the future at the Granite City plant.

In addition, the move will provide new financial strength and facilitate the modernization and addition of plant and facilities, he said.

Expansions scheduled by two East St. Louis firms will create 85 permanent jobs in the city. Mayor James E. Williams Sr. announced, Tamara Foods, Inc., plans to provide 65 new jobs and Universal Air Filter Co. will add up to 20 jobs.

Financing was provided by the Illinois Industrial Development Authority with coordination by the East St. Louis Industrial Development Department.

The mayor also announced a new federal grant of $3.8 million which will bring the Model Cities budget in East St. Louis to nearly $6 million.

Mayor Williams said he hoped the money, which under the new program may be spent on city-wide projects, would be used to improve lighting, sewers, garbage collection and the demolition of old buildings. East St. Louis was the only city in Missouri and Illinois to receive the new funds.

The 1971 Mississippi River Festival, at mid-season, had a 17% increase in attendance over the same period of last year's season. Nearly 39,000 persons attended nine festival events presented July 10-25, compared with 32,000 last summer. Attendance increase averaged more than 700 persons per event.

Nine communities have received top priority ratings from the state for federal grants to improve sewage treatment facilities. The Illinois Environmental Protection Agency ranks eight area projects among the top 20 projects on the priority list.

Included in the priority list are applications submitted by Granite City, Belleville, Caseyville Township, O'Fallon and Mascoutah. Granite City's proposed $15 million program is the largest application from this region for state and federal funds.

Amsted Industries, parent firm for the American Steel Foundries, reported second-quarter earnings 42% higher than the same quarter a year ago.

A. O. Smith Corp. had a 6.2% increase in profits in the first half of the year as compared with 1970. Pizer Inc. sales and earnings reached record high levels in the first half of 1971. Illinois Terminal Railroad Co. has recorded the best first-half results in the history of the present corporation. Income declined were reported by General Steel Industries, Inc., and by the Olin Corp. for the first half of 1971.

In education news, Lewis and Clark Community College will receive $82,200 from the state to bolster the district's basic. Ruben L. Yelvington, former editor of the Metro-East Journal, has been appointed director of public information for McKendree College in Lebanon; and the Edwardsville board of education voted to establish an improved communications program, consisting of meetings and a newsletter to 8,500 families three times a year.

MID-SUMMER ANNUALS

Your annuals will bloom more and produce better form with occasional pruning.

All annuals will perform better when you can remove old flower heads. Some require pruning to promote reblooming and include snapdragons, pansies, zinnias, cosmos and tall-growing marigolds. Pruning of the old flowers is not required to maintain steady supply of flowers on petunias, verbena, moss rose and dianthus.

Overgrown plants can be pruned back to create more compact plants. Long ungainly stems of petunias, verbena, coleus, pansy, bells of Ireland, alyssum and ageratum can be pruned back gradually or pruned back to stubs. New growth will create an attractive compact plant and a steady supply of full flowers.

NOTH-EATEN LAWNS

Have you seen lots of moths in your lawn during the past two weeks? Buff-colored moths in bluegrass lawns are the parents of the last generation of lawn webworms. Moths in late July produce a generation of worms that can damage your bluegrass in August.

Webworm damage is related to the number of worms as well as the condition of the lawn. Occasional deep watering produces more grass blades than the worms can eat. When watering is out of the question and you see lots of moths at this time you may need to use an insecticide.

The present pattern suggests webworms will hit their peak in early August. In drought situations more than two worms per square foot of grass will cause serious damage while watering lawns often support 5 to 6 worms without apparent injury. Look for nibbled-off plants that are still growing. Green leaf sections can be found in nearby tunnels in the thatch. The worms are green and hiding under the clippings. A single treatment with carbaryl (Sevin), Diazinon or Trichlorfon (Dylox) in early August will give you seasonal control. Granular products are just as effective as liquid sprays. As a spray application use 2.5 gallons of water per 100 square feet of turf. Follow the direction on the package.

Attempted Theft

Ben Glasgow, 3406 Grand Ave., reported at 11:10 p.m. Monday that someone attempted to steal some gasoline from his truck parked on the 16th Street lot. A gasoline can and hose were left by the truck.

PROCESS VEGETABLES IN THE PRESSURE CANNER

Use a pressure canner to process all common vegetables and other types of spoilage.

A pressure canner is the only kitchen utensil that can supply a high enough temperature in a reasonable length of time to kill the spores of bacteria that cause botulism, flat-sour and other types of spoilage.

When using a pressure canner, follow the manufacturer's directions. But if you've lost the instructions, follow these general directions for any steam-pressure canner:

—Place the canner in a clean and in perfect working order before you begin processing.

—Place two or three inches of water and a rack in the bottom of the canner.

—Set the filled glass jars on the rack in the canner. There should be enough space between jars so that steam can flow around them.

—If you put in two layers of jars, use a rack between layers and stagger the top layer.

—Fasten the canner cover securely so that steam escapes only at the petcock or weight-gate opening.

—Allow the canner over heat and allow steam to escape from the vent for 10 minutes to force all air out of the canner.

—Then close the petcock or put on the weighted gage.

—Let the pressure rise to ten pounds—240 degrees F.—and begin counting processing time immediately.

—Keep the pressure constant during processing by regulating the heat under the canner.

—Remove the canner from the heat as soon as processing time is finished.

—Let the canner stand until the pressure is zero. Then wait a minute or two before opening the petcock or taking off the weighted gage. As you remove the cover, tilt the far side up so that the steam escapes away from you.

—Remove the jars and place them top side up on a rack to cool.

Statewide Plan for Treating the Victims of Accidents Could Dramatically Reduce Toll of Injuries and Deaths

By GOV. RICHARD B. OGILVIE

One of the most important parts of my job is to look for work. And by that, I mean the responsibility to isolate problems and to make plans to meet those problems.

We are now putting into operation a statewide plan to give fast and expert care to victims of accidents in all parts of the state.

It appears to be the first such plan among all the states, and we are already receiving inquiries from other states as to details of the plan.

The need is grimly evident: The worst violence in this age of violence comes from accidental injuries on our highways, and in homes, factories and on farms.

Accidental injury is the leading cause of death among persons less than 45.

Nationally, injuries claim 115,000 lives a year, and leave another 400,000 persons disabled for life.

But the price tag of this violence—$25 million—tells only part of the story.

The plain fact is that a serviceman hurt in Vietnam has had a far better chance to get the medical care he needs than a person injured in Illinois.

Ask any policeman or Illinois state trooper what is the worst part of his job.

He'll likely tell you it's the recurring agony of being sent to the scene of an accident and finding the mangled bodies of the living and dead.

Poor communications, inexperienced first aid care, and unprepared medical facilities have in the past needlessly caused death or crippling injuries among persons who could have been saved.

The key to the Illinois plan is a network of 40 "trauma" or injury treatment centers in hospitals and medical centers in all parts of the state.

These will be linked by a statewide communications network, and backed up by a computerized trauma registry.

We are already recruiting retiring veterans with years of experience in battlefield injury to serve as coordinators of the on-the-scene handling of accident victims.

For the most seriously injured persons, who need immediate transportation to the best treatment center, we will use the state's helicopter fleet.

Last week I dedicated the first fully prepared regional trauma treatment center at St. John's Hospital here.

Similar centers are becoming operational in Chicago, Maywood and Carbondale, and will soon be joined by St. Francis Hospital in Peoria, Evanston Hospital, and centers in Champaign and Rockford.

The modern radio communications system we have developed will make possible the following hookup, for example:

The policeman or ambulance attendant, at the scene, in a three-way conversation with a surgeon and the nearest trauma center, will describe the injuries he has found.

Depending on the severity and the extent of the injuries, the attendant will be advised how to treat the victim immediately, where to take him, and how to transport him in the best way possible.

Emergency medical teams will be summoned to meet the victim on arrival with all the technicians and complex equipment necessary to give immediate treatment and prevent further damage.

Illinois is far too big to permit us to hope that our accident victims can always get the equal of battlefield service.

But the surgeons who developed the plan feel that a tremendous improvement can be realized in a very short time.

These surgeons, Dr. Bruce A. Flashner and Dr. David R. Boyd of the state Department of Public Health, have seen at first hand the awful effects of delay, unpreparedness, and lack of technicians and equipment.

Their enthusiasm—which is both exciting and catching—is going to be tested as the plan develops.

Each of the 40 trauma centers will feed its evaluations into a central computer bank.

I feel certain there soon will be dramatic evidence of lives saved and crippling injuries prevented.

What price should we place upon restoring a critically injured young man or woman to a full and productive life?

You can answer that yourself by imagining that it was your son or husband or daughter who was saved by fast and expert care.

I think most of us would say: "It's beyond price."

48 Inspectors Check Illinois Food Packages

By NANCY DAY

Springfield—A small boy puts his dime in the vending machine for a package of six cheese-filled crackers. Only five crackers are inside the cellophane wrapping.

A weight-conscious teenager buys a carton of diet soda pop, but one of the cans is extremely light—only two ounces instead of the 12 the label says each can contains.

Milk prices keep going up and housewives complain it seems the cartons don't seem as full, either.

All these cases—minor irritations to consumers which during a year can add up considerably in higher food bills—are problems for the Department of Agriculture's Division of Feeds, Fertilizers and Standards.

Check Weight, Label Division Director Glenn Yard explained how his team of inspectors guards Illinois residents against mislabeled underweight packaging and faulty scales.

He emphasized that most state merchants do not deliberately try to cheat consumers. Often, he said, their weight and measurement equipment is off, register and they don't notice until an inspector comes around.

At least that's what they tell Yard when he brings them in for a hearing. He's willing to believe them, as long as the situation is immediately remedied. His good faith is usually justified by subsequent inspections, he said.

Potential Punishment

If the consumer is still being tricked, however, Yard turns his data over to the state's attorney's office in the county where the offense occurred. The penalty upon conviction is a fine of $20 to $200 or imprisonment of up to three months or both. A second conviction can lead to a fine of up to $500 and imprisonment up to one year.

Inspectors have special police powers and may without formal warrant arrest alleged violators and seize for use as evidence

Paddlers to Offer Life-Saving Course

An American Red Cross life-saving course will be conducted for members of the Paddlers Swim Club beginning Monday and continuing through Friday, Aug. 20. Classes will be held from 10 a.m. to noon each day.

Applicants should sign up at the pool office this week for the admission-free course. Purchase of the Red Cross life-saving manual will be a requirement.

Junior life saving will be offered to members 11 to 14 with the ability to swim about 20 lengths of the pool, and senior life-saving appliances should be 15 years old and able to swim about 30 lengths.

On Duty in Okinawa

Marine Lance Corporal Andrew M. Griffith, son of Mrs. Gloria Clark, 208 Buxton Ave., Granite City, Ill., is serving with the Third Marine Division in Okinawa.

incorrect or unsealed weights and measures or amounts on packages of consumer commodities.

The law under which the division operates is the Weights and Measures Act approved Aug. 26, 1963. The act requires all packages to say what is inside, the net quantity in either weight, measure or count; where it was packed; and the name and place of business of the manufacturer, packer or distributor.

Liquids must be sold by liquid measures or weight. The standard does not apply to liquids sold for immediate consumption on the premises, such as a concession stand at a fair.

Key Consumer Service

In a memorandum dated June 16, Yard said, "Enforcement of Illinois' weights and measures law should be considered as Illinois' major and most important consumer protection service program."

The division's goal is to check every one of the scales and measures in the state at least once a year. The scales are compared to instruments tested regularly at the "master scales" of the state, kept in the lower level of the division office in a glass case.

These are in turn calibrated to the national weight standards which are attuned to the international (ultimate) scales and weights.

"This department is constantly on the look-out for people who make a practice of short weighting the public," Yard continued.

By enforcing the federal fair packaging and labeling act, the division also "assures clear and plainly visible labels on every packaged commodity sold," giving the housewife the opportunity to compare prices with amount of contents more easily.

The $6 inspectors also mount the state checking gasoline pumps. They're out to see if the total cost visible on the pump is tripping upward at a faster rate than the advertised price per gallon.

Workshop on Drug Use, Abuse Set by SIU-SW

A workshop on Drug Use and Abuse will be given this summer at Florissant Valley Community College, St. Louis, from Aug. 8-16, by Southern Illinois University-Southwestern Extension Services.

The workshop, to be instructed by Joseph S. Hupert of the SIU-SW Education Division, is designed to provide information for people interested in and concerned with drug use and abuse.

Four credit hours will be given for graduate or undergraduate students, participating in the workshop.

The workshop will be available at a cost of $80, which includes tuition and all materials. A $20 non-refundable deposit is required with application.

Anyone interested in participating in the workshop may contact H. Bruce Brubaker, Extension Services, in the General Office Building at SIU-SW, 6202. Checks should be made payable to Southern Illinois University.

Miss Steinman Named Judge in NCTE Test

Gladys Steinman, assistant professor of English at Southern Illinois University-Southwestern, has been appointed a regional judge for the National Council of Teachers of English Achievement Awards program for 1971.

Judging committees, comprising teachers of English from both colleges and high schools, will evaluate the writing skills and literary awareness of nearly 7,000 selected high school students in their junior year.

The achievement awards program attempts to grant recognition to high school students in their senior year for excellence in English. Miss Steinman explained. Finalists are announced in October and are recommended for scholarship aid to all colleges, universities and junior colleges in the United States.

The competition is part of the comprehensive program of the National Council of Teachers of English to improve instruction in English language and literature at all levels throughout the nation's schools.

2,300 Ex-GI's to be Polled in SIU-SW Study

Twenty-three hundred ex-GI's at Southern Illinois University-Southwestern are being polled to determine their interest in participating in a six-week experiment that could lead to development of new academic programs for returning Vietnam veterans.

"Figures currently available show that only 20 to 25% of Vietnam veterans are taking advantage of the GI Bill. This says something very clearly to us about the situation of those who are now returning to civilian life after a tour of military service. As a society we are wasting a reservoir of unrecognized and untapped potential. As individuals many veterans will suffer the life-long handicap of a truncated education," Dr. John S. Rendleman, Edwardsville chancellor, said in a letter accompanying the questionnaire.

SIU-SW has received a $24,000 grant from the U. S. Office of Education to support a six-week study substantially organized and run by veterans themselves which is expected to:

Define special educational needs and potentials of returning veterans and clearly reasons for the apparent dissatisfaction of Vietnam veterans with existing educational programs.

Develop, in coordination with faculty and administration, a specific proposal for an academic program for veterans at the University.

Formulate guidelines for other programs, probably innovative in nature, which would help veterans solve the problems of re-engaging with American society while also helping society to reach the untapped potentials of a new generation of returning veterans.

"We think the best way to begin solving these problems is to work with veterans themselves, rather than projecting what we and other outsiders might do to or for veterans," Chancellor Rendleman said.

The pilot project will involve 25 veterans, most of whom will be SIU-SW students, but efforts will be made to involve non-students as well. An estimated 30% of the veterans are expected to be from minority groups. Selected faculty and administrators will also participate.

Sessions are tentatively scheduled to run from Aug. 9 through Sept. 18.

Other approaches to problems of veteran readjustment which might develop from the project, Peter Gillingham, project coordinator, said, might include a proposal for establishment of "halfway houses" operating brief but intensive residential quasi-academic programs for area veterans immediately after their separation from the service.

The 25 veterans in the experimental program will divide into task forces to study specific questions in detail. Task force activities will include, but will not be confined to:

Consulting with representatives of all academic units at SIU-SW to clarify possibilities that each may have to offer in terms of the needs of veterans.

Area veterans interested in participating in the program are asked to contact Gillingham in the Office of the System Vice-Presidents at SIU-SW by telephoning (615) 692-3340.

Participation is open to veterans enrolled in any area college or university and to non-student veterans.

Freda Payne's Singing Shows Depth of Soul

By JUDY HUGG
Copley News Service

Freda Payne is an extraordinary performer, on stage or on record. She sings of life, of love and of the agonizing thrill of love. Her songs are honest, honest of feeling that leads one to believe every twisted note and every imploring lyric is with a depth of feeling that leads one to believe every twisted note and every imploring lyric is with a depth of her soul.

Besides her strong, deep voice, Freda has everything working for her—good looks, a body that she knows exactly how to use, plus a radiant personality that makes you glad you decided to have a chat with her.

In a recent interview, Miss Payne said that her favorite type of music is perhaps soul music. However, she loves songs written with a strong message and good melodic lines that have some point of building.

"I like songs that note great sensitivity and depth," she said. "Also songs that tell about unrequited love and deep feelings. You know, I really like these, in other words, 'Where's My Tiny Day?'"

This is the soulful side of Freda Payne that springs from a sheer sensuality, brought about by years of experience and attested to in her latest album called "Freda Payne Comes to the Inevitable."

Miss Payne first exercised her talent at the age of 11 when her teacher insisted on her singing instead of just playing the piano.

At the age of 17 she made her professional debut, singing in the chorus of the Pearl Bailey Revue.

Then a trip to Las Vegas where she soon found work singing with Duke Ellington, followed by an eight-week engagement at the San Souci. They, it was said, were in New York to study voice and dance. Dancing, incidentally, happens to be her greatest love in life.

"Soon I decided to hit the road again and pursue my career actively," she recalled. "I did nightclub engagements and soon people were requesting me, so one thing gradually led to another and here I am just returning from my second trip to Europe."

Miss Payne hit the pop scene big with her "Band of Gold" and is now making waves with her new hit single "Dancing the Boys Home," both on the victrol label. She now describes herself as a soul singer with a pop flavor.

During the past, I've been typed as a variety kind of singer that sings with different inflections," she explained. "For example, I can sing a show tune and do it the way a showman would do it, with the vaudeville pizzazz and all that stuff. Or I can sing a R&B (rhythm and blues) tune and sing it like it should be sung and the same goes for a jazz tune."

Freda has few peers when it comes to style, grace and looks, but she admits that she listened to a lot of Aretha Franklin when she was trying to get back in the soul bag. Coming from what they called the jazz bag, she felt she lacked soul and tried to gain it through Aretha.

"I soon discovered, however, that listening to others had very little to do with my gaining cause what someone else has isn't going to be what you've got. I began to think that if I was going to have it, it would just come naturally."

Without a doubt, it did come naturally and now everywhere this classy package appears, she causes a stir that has given her the label as one of the "sexiest female vocalists in the business."

Commenting on this, Freda explained her views of Women's Liberation. To her, women have fallen into a second-place category of what she calls the double-standard system. She says it's like a revolution and that women just won't stand for it any longer.

"Women can't really be treated like men because they must maintain their dignity and femininity," she said. "But, a smart woman can be right on with the liberation movement and at the same time control men and retain her femininity, dignity and self-respect. These are the foremost things, I believe, and they are the things I myself try to preserve."

ALL ABOUT ALBUMS
NAT KING COLE—"MY FAIR LADY" (Capitol)—The late Nat King Cole sings selections from Lerner and Loewe's "My Fair Lady." Fifteen years ago "Lady" opened on Broadway but time has not dimmed the beauty of such songs as "I've Got a New Feeling," "The Very Thought of You," "On the Street Where You Live," or the humor of "With a Little Bit of Luck" and "Come Fly With Me to the Church on Time." This was Nat's first and only recording of these songs.

Air Force Training, Job Opportunities Open

Sgt. Ernest Blackman, Air Force recruiter in East St. Louis, said today that job and training opportunities with the Air Force are now better than ever.

"Today," applicants experience very little delay to enter training, he said. "Several months ago, a young man might have to wait as long as three months before we could put him into the Air Force training program. This was due to a backlog of applicants which has now been absorbed. We are now able to put men into a training situation in a matter of days."

Sergeant Blackman added that there are some 400 different skills into which an airman can be trained.

"The actual job an applicant is ultimately selected for is made during basic training. A major factor that enters into the determination is the score he achieves on the aptitude test he takes at my office."

The test, the Airman Qualification Examination, is administered at Sergeant Blackman's office on Friday of each week. All applicants for the Air Force enlisted job and training program must complete this test.

He added that young men between the ages of 17 and 27 who want more information about job, training and other opportunities can contact him at the Air Force Recruiting Office, 650 Missouri Ave., East St. Louis, 274-1246.

State Commends Brown For Drug Education

A letter commending Gerald W. Brown, assistant principal at Central Junior High School, for his "outstanding contribution" to the Illinois Drug Education Program during the past year has been received by the Granite City school administration from Michael J. Bakalis, Illinois superintendent of public instruction.

"This office appreciates deeply the assistance you and your Board of Education have rendered in making his services available to work with drug abuse education programs throughout the state," Bakalis said.

"He is a splendid educator and has uncanny ability to relate well to both adults and youth. A substantial portion of the success of the program belongs to the persons who received the special training at the University of Wisconsin during the summer of 1970.

"Another proposal has been submitted to the United States Office of Education for funding for the 1971-72 school year. It is our hope that Mr. Brown will be allowed some released time during the coming school year to continue to lend his expertise to the drug abuse program or a state-wide basis.

"We look forward to continued progress in discouraging the use and abuse of drugs among all groups, but particularly among youth."

Members of the School Board, meeting Monday night, also extended personal commendations to Brown.

SIU Still Accepting Fall Term Freshmen

Southern Illinois University at Carbondale is still accepting fall-term applications from new freshmen and transfer students.

Jerre Pfaff, director of admissions, said only a few academic departments have reached enrollment limits, and student housing, both on and off-campus, is in adequate supply.

SIU will open the fall quarter with night classes meeting Sept. 21. Pfaff said prospective new students still have time to apply, be accepted and find housing before that time.

Fall term admission is open to Illinois freshmen ranking in the upper half of their high school graduating class, or those with a standard composite score of 21 on the ACT (American College Test). Out-of-state students must rank in the upper 40%, or score 21 on the test.

Transfer students are eligible if they recorded an overall "C" average at the last school they attended.

Students who have attended a two-year institution since first failing to meet SIU's admissions standard are not eligible to transfer to SIU until completing 38 quarter, or 24 semester hours at the two-year school.

Advance registration for new students will be conducted on six days in August (9, 11, 19, 20, 23 and 25). After that, new students may be registered only on Sept. 18, Sept. 23, and until noon on Sept. 24.

Campus residence halls will open at 9 p.m. Sept. 18 for fall term students. A three-day orientation schedule for new students begins Sept. 19.

Any reservations after Sept. 20 will include a $5 late registration fee.

Day classes will get underway Sept. 22 and all registration and program changes (adding a course or changing a class section) will end at noon Sept. 24.

Aerospace Education Workshop Planned

2,900 Summer Jobs Found for Area Youths

A total of 2,900 summer jobs for needy high school youths has been reported to the National Alliance of Businessmen, Jack Y. Kiburz, metropolitan area director, announced today.

"These are all full-time jobs filled by kids from 15 to 21 years of age as reported to us from local private industry," Kiburz said.

"Since June, our job development executives have been calling on their fellow businessmen seeking the job pledges. We have been very pleased with the cooperation. Even in those cases where a job can't be pledged, the interest in the project has been high and businessmen support us in many important ways," Mr. Kiburz said.

Water Program to be Transferred to SIU-SW

A water resources technology program developed at the Southern Illinois University, Vocation-Technical Institute will be transferred to SIU-SW Sept. 1.

The associate degree program will become a part of a new sanitation technology engineering course, according to VTI Dean Arden Pratt.

"This is in line with our policy of developing new curricula to meet specific public needs," he said. VTI has pioneered several courses of study, including the state's first accredited dental laboratory technology curriculum and programs in mortuary science and highway and civil technology, which were not available at any other school.

'Spud Band' Potato Thieves Active

The "Spud Band," comprising a gang of confidence men, is working a new game on unsuspecting farmers hauling potatoes to market in the early morning. The gang is active at the northern section of Venice, where during the past two weeks a large quantity of potatoes has disappeared. On one morning, four farmers were short a number of bushels when they arrived at the market in St. Louis.

There are five men in an automobile and the horn of the vehicle is blown continually as the machine passes a farm wagon. This is done to draw all noise of cutting the ropes on the canvas over the potatoes, and also the sliding of spuds into a sack. The sack is arranged with a hook with which to hang it on the wagon. While the potatoes are being stolen, the chauffeur crowds the wagon and keeps the farmer's eye on the machine.

An Inexpensive Beautification Project

One of the Fourth of July festivals in which I participated was at Riverside, Illinois, a community of about 10,000 near Chicago. I have been there several times, but this time I had the opportunity to get a better look at the community.

Riverside makes an unusually good impression as you drive through its streets.

Why?

A major reason is that some years ago there were community leaders and home-owners who had the good sense and vision to do something relatively inexpensive: plant trees.

One relatively impoverished downstate community I know makes a generally good impression as you drive through the community, even though the homes overall are not as nice as those in Riverside. The reason is the same: trees.

A few years ago a neighbor of mine, Bill Schmidt, died of a heart attack. Not too long before his death he planted a mimosa tree. He stuck a pipe in the ground to help it grow straight. On summer days when the sun seemed oppressive, he put an umbrella out to shade the little seedling. He watered it. Now a few years later that tree is a beautifully flowering, magnificent tree. Whenever I look at it I think of Bill Schmidt.

In Alton, Illinois the local park and recreation board has a program where trees can be planted in the community in honor of someone's memory. It is a practical, living memorial that makes Alton a more beautiful community. The program there was conceived by a local physician, Dr. Gordon Moore.

Planting trees takes little effort, improves the beauty of a community, and more importantly, helps to keep the air which we breathe clean.

One of the good things about planting trees is that it does not necessarily take any organized effort by either voluntary or governmental groups. You can start planning right now where you should plant a tree or trees early this fall. Or perhaps you want to get organized action on it, by having your local civic or church group, or municipality or park district push things.

But if you read this and do something, we will all be better for your thoughtfulness.

This Week in America's History

1771 — Daniel Boone, a Pennsylvanian born of Quaker parents, returned from an expedition looking toward land acquisition and settlement of areas in western Pennsylvania, Kentucky and Tennessee, and in sponsorship of Judge Richard Henderson of North Carolina.

As a hunter, trapper and frontiersman, Boone was to escort settlers to the new areas in 1775, and would make other expeditions as far west as the Yellowstone before his death in 1820 at 86.

1771 — Lt. James Cook, of the British Navy, returns to England in the ship Endeavour after three years at sea in the first of three voyages of exploration in the Pacific and elsewhere.

He was presented to King George III and also promoted to commander before setting out on his second voyage in 1772.

1821 — Meat-packing industry in first years at Cincinnati, a place of about 10,000, and to remain the leading packing center until surpassed by Chicago in 1890.

Queen Caroline, Consort of George IV, dies in 1821. Sued for divorce by the king after he came to the throne in 1820.

The House of Lords, after three months, had abandoned the bill, but she had been forced to participate in the coronation ceremonies in July 1821.

1871 — Apache War, in New Mexico, which began in late April with a massacre of 100 Apaches at Camp Grant, Ariz., is in progress and is to continue until the capture of Geronimo, Apache leader, in 1886.

World population estimated to have increased from 1,240 to 1,650 million between 1850 and 1900. Estimated in 1970 at 3,607 million.

Southwestern Illinois University Suitable Name for the President-Led Local Campus

Now that administrative autonomy has been granted to the two campuses of Southern Illinois University, with each campus headed by a president rather than a chancellor, thought might well be given to a suitable name for the two entities.

Admittedly, there is no present plan to create two university boards; both universities will continue to be governed by the Southern Illinois board of trustees.

Nevertheless, from the standpoint of more convenient identification and greater individual stature, it would be worth the time to study possible new campus designations for use now or at some future time.

The hyphenation which at present is necessary could prove confusing for the two SIU presidents, and perhaps a bit demeaning—sort of like the athletic record-setter who has to settle for an asterisk rather than a clear-cut listing in the record book.

When residents of Madison and St. Clair Counties initially were contributing toward a fund to purchase land for the proposed local campus, they did so under the banner of an officially-recognized organization which utilized the word "Southwestern" in its name.

After the local university was established, there was a sudden unexplained switch to "Edwardsville," with the word "Carbondale" added to the name of the original SIU campus 100 miles south of here.

The creation of "SIUC" and "SIUE" abbreviations may have had some geographic value, but no more so than would other descriptive symbols.

We have continued to use Southwestern, or SIUC-SW—not out of any disrespect to the neighboring city of Edwardsville, but out of respect to the regional concept initially stressed when money was being raised and when services and functions were being planned.

Even the campus newspaper—and students through a referendum—have emphasized the inadequacy of any one city's name by combining three—Alton, East St. Louis and Edwardsville—into the "Alestele" newspaper title.

The university situated in Southwestern Illinois truly serves the entire southwestern section of the state.

It also serves all of the state, many other

State Sluggish in Using Federal Funds to Reduce, Prevent Crime

By LESTER BELL

Copy Editor Service

Washington—A federal study has confirmed a warning made earlier this year by Arthur J. Blek, head of the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission, that crimebusters were moving sluggishly in the state.

Blek was here in January to confer with officials of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA).

He told a news conference the "root of the problem" in Illinois was the failure of such agencies as Chicago, Springfield and St. Louis to make use of "meaningful crime reduction and prevention programs."

Blek warned then that if this failure to mobilize forces effectively against crime continued, the voters would demand and probably force better coordination and/or necessary reforms.

Confirmation of Blek's assessment came in General Accounting Office (GAO) testimony last week before a House subcommittee when Gregory J. Ahart, deputy director of GAO's Civil Division, told of a review of block grants made by LEAA to state planning agencies in California, New York and Illinois in fiscal years 1969 and 1970.

The three states together got about one-fourth of all block grant funds awarded by LEAA, or $49.5 million.

"There has been a slowness in using the appropriate funds," Ahart said, despite the high priority Congress and LEAA put on fighting crime and improving the criminal justice system.

Ahart said as of last Dec. 31, the three states had withdrawn only $11.9 million, of which their planning agencies had forwarded $9.2 million to state and local units of government.

"While expenditures should be made only when it appears that a useful result will obtain, we believe that the inertia evidenced by the aforementioned figures is a matter which should be of concern both to Congress and LEAA."

Ahart told the Government Operations Subcommittee for Legal and Monetary Affairs.

Ahart said LEAA itself was unable to respond to the Illinois state planning agency request in 1970 for information on programs that had failed or succeeded, because its own intake was too sketchy.

He said the fact that project evaluations "are not being made in an organized and systematic way is the first stumbling block to adequately inform state planning agencies."

He said that the three state planning agencies advanced funds to sub-grantees in amounts greater than necessary to meet their actual needs.

"If the three states reviewed, we visited 27 sub-grantees and found that 13 of them had funds in excess of current requirements," he said. "For example, in Illinois, four of seven sub-grantees were advancing funds three to five months before the funds were needed."

In some instances, listings of states and many other countries, for that matter. But by almost every yardstick that can be used, it is part and parcel of the Illinois portion of the St. Louis bi-state metropolitan area—not limited to any one city or even to any one county, but focused on the whole region.

If further precedent needs to be noted, it is a fact that many decades ago the high schools of such cities as Alton, Wood River, Edwardsville, Collinsville, Granite City, Madison, East St. Louis and Belleville formed the Southwestern Conference, which still exists today with only a slightly altered membership list.

The port district serving the East St. Louis area is formally designated as Southwestern. And this region undeniably is situated in the state's southwestern sector.

Being situated in the southern half of Illinois but not in the southernmost quarter, the local campus has less claim to "Southern" than does the Carbondale campus, which also has a claim of much longer standing to the SIU appellation.

All of which would seem to indicate that it would be reasonable to assign the Carbondale institution Southern Illinois University without benefit of an asterisk or hyphen—and to name the school here Southwestern Illinois University.

Shared services—and the joint board of trustees—could continue without any impairment of jurisdiction or efficiency.

Bicentennial Era Opens; Objectives Include Peace, Prosperity, Health, Homes, Education

The most significant events of the American Revolution and the founding of our republic took place in what is now only the narrow eastern edge of a nation that spans a continent.

It is understandable that preparations for the American bicentennial celebration in 1976 are getting the most attention in those cities and states where the nation's birthplace is unfolded two centuries ago.

If the rest of the nation is developing a left-out feeling, the address by President Nixon proclaiming the beginning of the five-year bicentennial era may be heartening. He emphasized that the bicentennial will be much more than a look backward to 1776.

It will deal with the full 200 years of national history—a record of accomplishment for every state in the union. More important, it will deal with much with the present and the future as with the past.

Mr. Nixon called on America to dedicate itself to a series of goals for its 200th year. They are ambitious goals—peace, a stable and healthy economy, a victory over the threat of pollution to air and water, an extension of opportunities for education, health care, good housing and employment throughout the population.

When the eyes of the world turn to the United States of America in 1976, the meaning of the bicentennial will be the extent to which the American people have brought these goals to reality.

Two hundred years ago, the first U. S. citizens accepted the challenge of making a success of a bold experiment in self-government founded on principles of political equality and individual rights. That challenge is renewed for each generation of Americans.

It has been stated once again with special significance by President Nixon in his enumeration of goals for the era of national celebration just beginning. The challenge passes now to the states and cities to become the inspiration for their participation in the bicentennial.

of funds received," he said.

There was little mention of about $8.70 of a $17,000 grant in August 1970, and in January 1971 the subgrantee still had the funds and did not anticipate spending them for several months.

He said all three states had taken steps to measure the effectiveness of individual projects and programs which were used for such purposes.

"In Illinois, we noted instances where the consultants stated they were not able to fully evaluate the projects because they believed project goals and objectives were inadequately defined and/or necessary records for an evaluation were not established or maintained," Ahart said.

"We do not think the matter can be allowed to rest," he asserted, saying project evaluations are "vital" in state planning by different agencies, all needing such information and making the transition from federal aid to state-sustained improvements.

SUGGESTS MODIFYING TAVERN CLOSING LAW

To the Editor:

This last year, an alderman-appointed citizens committee of very outstanding citizens in our city submitted a proposal to the Madison City Council on tavern closing laws in this city. It was approved by the Council with very high public commendation and the city's tavern closing hours were changed from 4 a.m. to 1 a.m. on weekdays nights and 2 a.m. on Saturday and Friday nights.

Since the new closing law came into effect, there has been street talk of some dissatisfaction. Some of the tavern owners are really trying to abide by the laws under the new conditions.

When tavern owners have to break the law to stay in business, they can be used, along with the police, as political footballs. Such a game, tavern owners are in danger of losing their drams shop insurance or of having to pay more for it, and police have political difficulty enforcing the laws.

It is possible that we could create an alternative for tavern owners that might: (1) take some of the pressure off their employees; (2) encourage them to rearrange their establishment; and (3) ease police problems; and (4) at the same time bring in a little more sales tax into our city treasury.

The alternative is that we modify the closing law and certify restaurants to have liquor licenses continue serving drinks with food at table (but

'Rose' Reviewed—Mrs. Kennedy a Woman Never Heard to Complain

JOHN PINKERMAN

"Believe me, she's not going to be a priest or her own priest, but she's really inside. No one really knows her."

This is what an acquaintance told author Gail Cameron about Mrs. Rose Fitzgerald Kennedy, and it perhaps is why "Rose," a biography of the 81-year-old woman, is so popular.

It doesn't tell many of us much we didn't know about this remarkable woman.

However, the more we read the Kennedy and the Fitzgerald pieces together between two books, the more we are struck by the volume on the triumphs and the tragedies that have struck this Massachusetts politician.

Author Cameron, called a Kennedy "expert" by the publisher, based on her eight years covering the Kennedy for Life magazine, never got a chance to interview closely the subject of the biography.

She seems to leave a void in the book. She has done her research well in an attempt to overcome this deficiency.

What she has found about Rose's early life in Boston with her politician father, John F. (Honey Fitz) Fitzgerald, seems to emerge as the most interesting area of her writing.

Rose was a brilliant and vibrant girl in those early days. Boston's Irish Catholic society was the young graduate at Dorchester High School, and her diploma was at the age of 15 from her father, who recently had won the race for mayor of Boston.

Little success had been made in crime prevention and reduction; the probation system was intolerably defective; most county jails are outmoded and archaic; professional law enforcement training runs the gamut from one far some county deputies to seven months for a Chicago police recruit; and suspicion and mistrust among the jurisdictions benefits the criminal.

"We can make plans until doomsday, but what we need is implementation," declared John F. X. Irving, the commission's executive officer, at that news conference.

"We have no statutory power to enforce laws, but we have participation, but we will make funds available to them."

The Illinois commission is a state agency for planning and coordinating improvements in criminal justice.

It gets about two-thirds of its funds from the federal government under the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968.

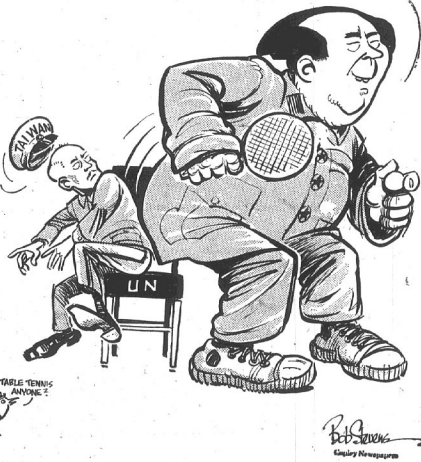

It also created the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration in the Justice Department to administer the federal crime program.

LEAA merely requires each state to create a state planning agency, the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission to plan and distribute funds. LEAA then awards block grants.

Less Litter and Concession Stands, Better Entertainment Schedule at Fair Aug. 13-22

By JOAN MURARO
Copley News Service
Springfield—Visitors to the 1971 Illinois State Fair have been promised fewer concession stands, less litter, cleaner restrooms and more attractions on a better schedule—all adding up to a shiny, fast-paced "Exposition of Progress" running Aug. 13 to 22.

There will be new features—a championship rodeo, a "demolition derby," a free circus, midjet auto racing and an International Village.

New comfort-shady covers over the seats at the tractor pull, a new completely covered free outdoor stage, a special tent rest area with chairs, tables, refreshments and a stage, just for senior citizens; a new cattle show pavilion—and all, or nearly all, the old standard attractions as well.

Billed as the largest livestock and agricultural event of its kind in the world, the Illinois State Fair will offer more than $1,000,000 in premiums.

In the speed division, there will be real horsepower in trotting and pacing programs with more than $53,000 at stake, as well as a quarterhorse racing program.

There will be motorized horsepower in twin 50-mile U. S. Auto Club midjet races on Aug. 26, the 100-mile stock car race on Aug. 21 and the 100-mile Tony Bettenhausen Memorial to be run Aug. 22.

That marks a change from previous fairs, when the big cars raced on the final Saturday and the stocks ran on Sunday.

More than 10,000 livestock entries will pass through the grounds during the exhibition, and split judging has been inaugurated this year, for the convenience of exhibitors and to ensure that there will be livestock on the grounds every day of the fair.

Deggeler Shows take over Happy Hollow this year for the first time, with new attractions including an 80-foot hot Astro-wheel (one of the few on the circuit in this country), the Flying Bobs, Turbo, Himalaya, and a carousel with 60 horses, as well as old familiar rides. The girls show will be missing, replaced by the International Revue with acts from the South Seas.

The entrance to Happy Hollow is being widened to nearly 100 feet, to ease congestion.

The Food-A-Rama, introduced last year, will be housed in a permanent structure this year, with seven national food chains represented.

The nearby International Village will offer, under tent, foods, gifts and ethnic entertainment from foreign lands including India, Japan, Turkey, Nationalist China and Mexico, as well as gift items from England, Germany, France and some Scandinavian areas.

Grandstand entertainment at night will include Red Skelton, Pat Boone, Lawrence Welk, Merle Haggard, The Guess Who, Doc Severinsen, a country music program including such stars as Porter Wagoner and Dolly Parton, and a full program of gospel music.

The National Championship horse show will offer more than $85,000 in purses in the Coliseum Aug. 12 through 17, with the Western Show there Aug. 19 through 22 giving away more than $700 in cash awards.

Dances, concerts and rock groups will return to the roof garden of the Illinois Building for the young, and there will be the bake-off contest, a pork cookout competition for men only, antique autos, bocce ball, horseshoe pitching and a traveling stage hauling talent around the grounds.

Traffic patterns have been improved, gates will be open daily, and one gate will be open to purchase admissions 24 hours a day.

All in all, it sounds like a far better than fair Fair.

His chances of unseating highly-regarded Republican incumbent William J. Scott would, however, rate as slim. Current capitol consensus for a Democratic harmony slate for 1972 would probably list Howlett for governor, Simon for U. S. senator and Foran for attorney general.

The big problem here for Daley and his allies would undoubtedly be Simon. He holds a good hand in political poker and conceivably could call even Daley's bluff.

One of Howlett's main arguments for seeking the governor spot is that he has a following among Republicans unmatched by any other Illinois Democrats. However, Howlett would probably draw fewer traditional Republican voters away from John Lewis than from any other GOP opponent, most specifically Ogilvie.

Nor would Howlett be happy with being slated for another term in what amounts to his present office, although the new designation under the new Illinois Constitution is controller.

Family Income Guidelines for Free Lunches Set

Family income guidelines for eligibility for free and reduced price school lunches were revised Monday night by the Granite City Board of Education to conform to new income guidelines issued by the Secretary of Agriculture.

Copies of policy statements are to be forwarded to parents through their children at the beginning of school. The announcement and application forms are the same as used last year.

The guidelines, listing the family size and the annual gross income limits follow:

One, $2,040; two, $2,670; three, $3,310; four, $3,940; five, $4,530; six, $5,110; seven, $5,640; eight, $6,170; nine, $6,650; 10, $7,120; 11, $7,620; 12, $8,060; and for each additional family member, $480.

Density Bonus Plan

The board approved a density bonus plan in which the district will receive an increase in state aid of $288,700 through a 4% density factor. It requires the approval of the state of the superintendent of public instruction.

The plan last year provided for 20 positions which will be retained with the exception of the psychologist, now financed in another program. The increase will provide for 17 more this year.

The budget for the program includes $11,925 for a business manager, $288,000 for personnel and $4,500 for contractual services, a truancy program operated in conjunction with Coordinated Youth Services.

Teacher Workshops

It was announced that teacher workshops will be held Aug. 30 at 9 a.m. in preparation for the opening of the new school term.

The board approved participation in a new southwestern regional program for hearing impaired to replace a former bi-county program which had dissolved.

To serve as an interim plan, each special education co-op in Madison County would pay for the services of the supervisor on an average daily attendance assessment. St. Clair County could use the services on the same basis. The cost to the Region I co-op was estimated at a maximum of $6.

Conduct Charge Filed

Two St. Louis youths were arrested at Les Wright Homes, Venice, at 3 a.m. Tuesday following a disturbance there. Charged with disorderly conduct were Willie E. Pullman, 18, and Lloyd R. Simms, 19.

$10 Stolen at Home

Martha Huckleberry, 2009 Washington Ave., reported Monday that someone entered her home during the night and took $10 and a green welfare card from her purse.

000. A future center for hearing impaired would be developed if funds are available.

Swimming Program

A swimming program for special education students housed at Central Junior High School and conducted at the YMCA was approved. The program was instituted a year ago. Rental will be $450 for 70 hours at $6 per hour for pool and related use, the same as last year.

The board approved requests by Granite City Steel Employees Federal Credit Union to use the high school cafeteria for an annual meeting Jan. 15 and by Nameoki United Presbyterian Church to conduct Sunday Church School classes from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. on Sundays from Sept. 12 to June 30.

Appointed as crossing guards were Virgil Carr, 2223 Miral Drive, for Maryville School, with Mrs. Ann Brown, 2108 Dawn Place, as an alternate, and Mrs. Mosell Long, 28 Moorland Drive, for Mitchell School, with Mrs. Pat Gantt, 217 Greenway Drive, as an alternate.

Mexican Independence Fiesta Set Sept. 18

Preparations started this week for the "Fiesta Independence," a variety program and public dance sponsored annually by the Mexican Honorary Commission of Granite City to commemorate the anniversary of Mexico.

Plans for the fiesta were announced at a monthly meeting held at the Jaycee Hall, in which the organization also agreed to participate in the Aug. 21 "Diamond Jubilee Parade" and displayed new national flags sent from Mexico by a former resident.

Steve Ortiz, commission president, announced the fiesta event will take place at 8 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 18, at the Venice-Madison American Legion Hall, 740 Broadway, Venice. The public is invited and tickets soon will be available from individuals and at business firms, the official said.

Mrs. Elva Ortiz was named to direct the 1971 fiesta program which will mark the 161st anniversary of Mexico's independence. Also appointed at the meeting was Mrs. Norma Mendoza, who will coordinate plans for a special float to be entered in the city's jubilee parade.

Two Mexican flags, displayed by Ortiz, were purchased in Mexico by Guillermo R. Orozco.

peza, a former Granite City resident, now retired, who also selected and sent the local organization decorations and recordings of traditional music for use at the fiestas.

About 60 members attended the meeting and enjoyed a social hour following the business session. Hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Otilio Valencia Jr.

Children's Carnival Planned as Benefit

Lisa Kee, 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Denny Kee, 2568 Ivy Lane, will serve as ringmaster for a neighborhood carnival for the benefit of muscular dystrophy victims, on Friday at her home.

The carnival will begin at 1 p.m. and feature such games as milk bottle drop, sponge toss, marble shoot, bean bag toss, guessing gum balls in a glass container and a comic book stall.

Assisting will be her brother, Leslie, 8, and a sister, Laura, 6, and several neighborhood friends.

All proceeds will go to the muscular dystrophy fund sponsored by Jerry Lewis, national chairman. The children got the idea for staging their benefit while watching TV personality Mr. Patches who promotes carnivals on his children's show.

Children in the general vicinity are invited to attend the affair.

Madison County Residents Workshop Planned

Madison county residents purchased a total of $342,460 in series E and H United States savings bonds in June, according to Henry D. Karandjef, Granite City, county chairman of the savings bonds committee. Illinois sales were $28,253,946, according to Clarence S. Sochowski, market director of the Treasury savings bonds division. This is 19.4% over last June's total.

Illinois' sales represented 5.8% of the state's 1971 quota of $313,600,000 has been reached in the first six months. As of June 30 the dollar amount outstanding reached a new all time high of $58.6 billion.

State Microfilms Auto Listings-1907 to 1968

John W. Lewis, Secretary of State and State Librarian, has announced the completion of filming the "Wheel Book" records from 1907 through 1968. The "Wheel Book" is the listing of all registered motor vehicles for each year since registration of motor vehicles began in 1907. More than 3,500,000 vehicles were registered in 1970 alone, which indicates the tremendous volume of paper involved.

In 1968, the Motor Vehicle Division, faced with the problem of storage and handling of the preponderous records of motor vehicle registrations, with the assistance of Central Micrographics Operation and the State Library, decided to consolidate these records by putting them on microfilm. This tremendous amount of information is now contained on 481, 16mm cartridges. For historical purposes, the first ten years were rebound, cataloged and the new series in the State Library Document Collection.

An index is provided for each cartridge which makes it possible for easy access of information. Hundreds of requests for early motor vehicle registration information are answered weekly by the Automobile Registration Files Section. The amount of time saved in searching for this information is incalculable.

Members and guests are to arrive in western dress in keeping with the Granite City Diamond Jubilee celebration. The party will start at 6:30 p.m. with serving of dinner, and conclude at 10 p.m.

Cost of dinner has been set at $7.50 per couple or $3.75 for a single member. Reservations should be made prior to Tuesday, Aug. 10, with Mrs. Weiss or Mrs. Meyer.

How to save cool cash on your Air Conditioning

Here are ways you can save money on your air conditioning this summer—and get more pleasure from its cool comfort.

GET A CHECK-UP

It's a good idea to have your window unit or central system checked every year by a reliable serviceman to make sure it's in good working order.

KEEP AN EYE ON YOUR THERMOSTAT

You're throwing away money by asking your air conditioner for more cooling than you really need. When you set your thermostat, remember this:

over an average summer, each degree below 75 costs you an extra six to ten per cent on your electric bill.

KEEP THE HEAT OUTSIDE

Proper insulation in walls and ceilings pays its own way in what you save on both heating and air conditioning. Keep drapes and blinds drawn on hot days. Keeping the heat out takes a load off your air conditioner.

AIR CONDITIONERS NEED AIR

Replace or clean filters frequently to keep air flowing freely. Keep your outdoor unit free of weeds and shrubbery. Without proper air circulation, it works at only a fraction of its efficiency.

LET THE BLOWER RUN

Setting your furnace blower to run continuously in hot weather brings savings, comfort, and better humidity control. With window units, let the fan operate continuously to provide circulation and steady comfort.

Park District Pre-School Registration Scheduled

Registration for the Granite City Park District's pre-school program will be held from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 17, at the Wilson Park office. The fall-winter series of classes will commence in September.

Parents may visit the office in person to register their child, or call 877-3058, according to Harold Brown, park superintendent. Four classes are scheduled this year, with a maximum number of 35 youngsters in each, he advised.

To be eligible to attend the twice-weekly sessions, children must be residents of the Granite City Park District and have reached the age of four years by Nov. 1, the official emphasized.

The only charge for participation is a $1 per child insurance fee, if the youngster has not previously been covered through a park program in the summer months, and a 10-cent daily cost for milk and cookies.

The park official explained that children enrolled in pre-school classes are required to be covered under a $1 per year park district insurance plan.

Those who have paid the insurance charge for the summer pre-school program at Wilson Park are not required to pay the insurance fee again until April 30, 1977.

Classes will be conducted at Lincoln Place Community Center on Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays. Afternoon sessions for two separate groups will be held from 1-3 p.m. and morning classes from 9-10 a.m. No sessions are scheduled on Wednesdays.

Children will be enrolled in classes in order of their registration. Brown said, noting again that class size is limited to 35 pupils. The park-sponsored program usually has a maximum enrollment.

Mrs. Ruby Mayberry and Mrs. Rosemary Lindner again will serve as pre-school directors, Brown said.

Conduct Charge Filed
William N. Sullivan, 35, of Rockford, was arrested at 1 a.m. Tuesday on a charge of disorderly conduct at the Twilight Tavern on a complaint signed by Thomas Boushaid.

ROBERTA FLACK

ALBERT KING

Roberta Flack, Albert King Booked for River Festival

The scheduled performance of Roberta Flack, singer and pianist, and Albert King, guitarist and bluesman, for the Tuesday, Aug. 10, program at the Mississippi River Festival should provide music lovers the opportunity to witness the old and the new first hand.

The program will begin at 8:30 p.m. at the festival site on the Southern Illinois University-Southern campus with tickets available at the site.

Singing to packed houses everywhere appears not to have changed Roberta Flack, nor will it ever, because those close to her label her as no ordinary woman in any sense of the word. Roberta Flack says, "I'm growing all the time," and her audiences feel this in her singing and playing.

Miss Flack's first album, "First Take," sold so well that Atlantic record company quickly released a second one entitled, "Chapter Two," which promises to be what the music industry calls "a monster."

Her singing has been labeled a combination of rock, soul, folk, gospel and jazz. Miss Flack, like many singers, started at a young age singing in the church choir, where her mother played the organ and gave her piano lessons, which gave her an early introduction to music.

At the age of four she was picking at the piano and later moved on to playing the organ in church. All through high school she played in the band and choir and exhibited evidence of a seemingly child prodigy in gospel music. Roberta Flack graduated from high school at the age of 18 and received a full scholarship to Howard University.

Upon graduation from Howard at 18, she completed six months of graduate school in music before the death of her father caused the family to move to Washington, D. C. Miss Flack accepted a teaching job in a rural segregated school in Farmville, N. C.

Her musical career began as an accompanist for opera singers and later she worked part-time, and in the summers, playing and singing in clubs in Washington, D. C.

Miss Flack has appeared on the Today Show, the Merv Griffin Show, the Tonight Show, and all of the major jazz festivals, including the Montreaux Festival in Switzerland.

Guitarist King
In the combination of the old and the new, guitarist Albert King has to stand out as the candidate for the grand old. Having been a musician for many years before the times caught up with him, Albert King's popularity came late in life.

He had played the blues for many years for $4 or $5 a night until the new generation started to "dig" the blues sound. King now finds several of his songs on the top polls in the country.

He has also recorded several albums and played the guitar for a number of the popular rock groups.

King appeared at the MRF last year with Bonnie and Friends and always proves to be a crowd pleaser. He recently released a record named Lovejoy.

The six-week 1971 season is sponsored by Mississippi River Festival, Inc., a not-for-profit Illinois corporation with directors from Missouri and Illinois.

The Illinois Arts Council is joined this year by the Missouri Arts Council in providing financial support. This is one of the first occasions on which two state arts councils have approved funds for the same regional celebration.

Cong. Price Ceasefire Plan Key to Draft Compromise

An immediate Vietnam ceasefire proposal offered by Cong. Melvin Price (D-East St. Louis) is a key provision in the draft bill compromise agreed to by House and Senate conferees.

Cong. Price, the ranking House conferee, obtained approval for inclusion in the conference report on the draft bill of a ceasefire agreement as a means of implementing the withdrawal of U. S. forces from Indochina and return of American prisoners of war.

The top House Armed Services Democrat has advocated such an approach for over a year. Following his return from Cambodia as a member of the President's fact finding commission on the Cambodian invasion, Price in June 1970 outlined his ceasefire proposal in a speech before the Belleville Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The Price ceasefire proposal, has been incorporated in the House Concurrent Resolution 276, which Cong. Price introduced last April. It calls for the President of the United States to publicly announce that as of given date and time the United States would cease all offensive action by U. S. forces (air, land, sea) for a limited period of time, long enough for the North Vietnamese and the Vietcong to join in the ceasefire, either tacitly or officially.

UN To Move In

If they responded favorably, a UN or other international force would be ordered into South Vietnam to oversee the ceasefire and the withdrawal of all foreign troops — a move that should in turn generate meaningful negotiations.

If the communists refused to accept or observe or abide by the ceasefire, the United States would, of course, clearly reserve the right to defend itself against attack. Simultaneously the President would declare that the United States would repeat the ceasefire initiative in two weeks time. If that failed, it would be repeated a third and fourth time — until the communists were convinced the U. S. was serious about ending the war.

Cong. Price declared, "A ceasefire would bring an immediate end to the killing and destruction; it provides for the protection and safety of American troops and provides for their early withdrawal; it guarantees the simultaneous withdrawal of North Vietnamese troops, thereby precluding any mistake about an American 'surrender' or 'sell out'; it offers a realistic opportunity for a political rather than a military settlement to the war through resumption of meaningful negotiations in Paris leading to the return of our Prisoners of War, and it provides the Vietnamese people with full opportunity for self determination."

Scott Asks High Court to Reconsider Tax Decision

Illinois Attorney General William J. Scott has filed a petition in the Illinois Supreme Court asking the court to reconsider its recent decision that reimposed the personal property tax on individuals.

In an extensive brief, Scott pointed out that the people of the State, by an overwhelming eight-to-one margin, voted to amend their own Constitution to remove the unfair and inequitable tax on an individual's personal property.

Scott said that the Court has the obligation to give every benefit of the doubt to holding such a Constitutional amendment valid.

Scott cited numerous legal decisions holding that it is proper to classify individual ownership of property differently for taxation purposes, including the Illinois Supreme Court's own decision in the recent income tax case.

Many Advantages

"There are many advantages of corporate ownership, such as the exemption from personal liability and the continuity of ownership which justifies treating the corporate citizen differently than the individual citizen," Scott said.

Scott also pointed out the importance of a complete and final legal determination of the personal property tax question

"Since many points in the Court's original opinion would place in jeopardy the plan, included in the new Constitution, of gradually phasing out the entire personal property tax."

Scott said that he had been notified by the Illinois Agricultural Association that they would also file a brief on behalf of the farmers of Illinois supporting Scott's position.

Recreation for Millions Due to Efforts of One

More than three million persons are expected to visit Carlyle Lake this year, plus a horde of visitors at Springfield and only a few of them know of the one man most responsible for the fishing, picnicking, camping and water sports afforded them on these Kaskaskia River embayments.

He is the late Eldon E. Hazlet of Carlyle, who died of cancer on the eve of his 44th birthday, March 4, 1966.

The federal and state governments furnished the funds for the new Southern Illinois recreation lakes that combine water conservation and flood control and fun, but it was Hazlet who camped at Springfield and Washington to get these funds. Giving him financial support was the sprawling Kaskaskia Valley Association whose members contributed money to help build the two lakes, the flood wall at New Athens and the canalization of the lower Kaskaskia from Fayetteville to Chester where the Kaskaskia flows into the Mississippi. He headed the KVA until his death in the early '50s until his death.

Eldon crowded his 43 plus years. He grew up at Salem, caddied on the Salem golf course as a boy, served in the Air Force in Europe in world war II and then G-I Billed his way through law school at the University of Illinois, graduating in February, 1950. He hung out his shingle in Carlyle in the spring of 1950 and became exposed to the possibility of Illinois' biggest lake, then on the drawing board of the U. S. Corps of Engineers. As a young attorney, he had time for such things.

He made his first trip to Washington in behalf of the lake in the spring of 1952 and the Carlyle Lake project was taken out of the "file to be abandoned because of lack of local interest" and placed in the "active file."

From there, he took off. He was able to get more planning funds, then construction funds and in 1958 construction was under way. Completed about three years ago, Carlyle Lake drew more than two million pleasure-seekers in both 1969 and 1970. Ideal weather this year has increased visitation. Visitors have been coming at the rate of 80,000 to 100,000 a week. That plus Shelbyville, where the first recreation season is being experienced this year.

The State of Illinois named its biggest park on Carlyle Lake, approximately 2,300 acres on the west side, the Eldon Hazlet State Park in his honor. The Department of the Army awarded him the army's highest decoration for a civilian in the last year of his life.

Gene Jantzen of Carlyle has been named chairman of the Kaskaskia Valley Association to solicit funds for a memorial to Mr. Hazlet.

The young attorney was neither fisherman nor boater but envisioned the value of the Kaskaskia River projects to Southern Illinois.

It was not his lone achievement. He headed tourism in this region, was city attorney for several Clinton county communities, managed the Clinton County Fair from its organization until his death, was Chamber of Commerce secretary in Carlyle for his last six years and found time to be father to five children.

In 16 years he became Carlyle's most irreplaceable citizen and the state, in his death, lost a waterways champion. When he was ill and unable to appear before the Senate finance committee, he was paid a fine tribute by the late U. S. Senator Everett Dirksen. Dirksen told the senatorial group that "Eldon Hazlet says these projects need additional money, and if he says so, the projects need it."

Mrs. Hazlet, who shared her husband's enthusiasm in the Kaskaskia project, has moved her family to Jacksonville where she was graduated from MacMurray College in education this spring. She will teach in the Jacksonville grade school system this fall. Her daughter, Cynthia, and son, Peter, attend Illinois College there, her daughter, Pam, is in high school, and Linda and Bill are in grade school. The latter attends the State School for the Blind.

Hazlet did not live to see the completion of his dedicated work. He would have enjoyed the throngs at the two lakes. He expected the canalization of the Kaskaskia still not completed, would create another Ruhr Valley from an industrial stand-point.

Student Charged With Marijuana Possession

Robert Dale Waters, 17, of 2554 Cleveland Blvd., was charged with illegal possession of marijuana after he was arrested at Venice-Lincoln Technical Center, Venice, Monday afternoon.

Venice officers said that while making a routine check of a second-floor washroom at the school, they found Waters, an unlighted marijuana cigarette. Police reported Waters dropped the cigarette on the floor and ran out of the washroom.

He was arrested a short time later in the superintendent's office and when searched, officers said they found marijuana in his wallet.

He was placed in custody of Madison County officials and taken to the Madison County Jail.

Injured Seriously as Car Strikes Bridge

Police said Noble's car struck the north side railing, then crossed two lanes and struck the south railing before halting against the superstructure. The front end of the car was demolished.

Noble was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital where he was examined for head and possible internal injuries and transferred to the intensive care unit of Firmin Desloge Hospital, St. Louis.

Turkish Ban Aids Opium Battle

By JAMES CARY
Copley News Service

Washington — Turkey's decision to halt all opium production in 1972 may be a major victory in fighting the international drug traffic, but a total cutoff of illegal drugs entering the United States is not in sight.

Six other nations besides Turkey — sources of an estimated 60 to 80 percent of the heroin used by American addicts — are authorized to grow opium legally under a 1961 convention on narcotics.

Some of this gets into illicit channels.

Mexico, although not authorized under the treaty, also produces some opium that is processed into heroin for U.S. customers.

Southeast Asia — particularly the tri-border area of Laos, Burma and Thailand — has become increasingly significant as a source of opium-based illicit drugs.

There are reports of 21 opium refineries in the region producing a constant flow of heroin for U.S. troops in South Vietnam.

The authorized opium-growing nations besides Turkey are India, the Soviet Union, Bulgaria, Iran, Yugoslavia and Greece.

Of these, India has the reputation of controlling its production well. Iran demonstrated a capability to enforce a halt two years ago, but has restarted legal production. It, too, is believed to have its crop under reasonable control.

Little is known about what happens to the opium grown in the other nations, although none is rated as a major source of illicit supply.

The United States has 200,000 to 300,000 known heroin addicts. A series of successes in shutting off the opium supply in Turkey began in 1968. At that time, after 10 years of negotiations, the United States loaned Turkey $3 million to purchase transportation and communications equipment and to train agents, all to be used in cutting off illegal opium poppy production and sales.

Agreed to Cut

In return, Turkey agreed to a staged reduction in the number of provinces authorized to grow opium. They have been reduced from 21 to seven and will be cut to four this fall. The final crop will be harvested in August or September, 1972.

Control over Turkey's remaining authorized production this year and next will be tightened by a new licensing law for opium growers and a government offer to buy these crops at improved prices.

Most of the equipment provided by the United States has been in Turkey only about a year, and the training of agents is just beginning to take effect.

The payoff, the U.S. Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs reports, has come in the form of much better intelligence on the illegal drug traffic. This has led to seizures of more than 2 tons of illicit raw opium in Turkey in the first four months of 1971.

International narcotics agents, including U.S. bureau men, also have seized 2½ tons in the last six months along the supply route into the United States.

Although that route is constantly shifting, the traditional path has been from Turkey to clandestine laboratories in southern France, where the opium base is converted into heroin, then to America via New York, Canada, South America or Mexico.

A senior State Department official points out that Turkey in 1970 produced 120 to 150 tons of opium legally.

Of this, at least 60 tons were diverted into illegal channels. Of the illegal opium from Turkey alone, less than five tons has been intercepted during a period of the greatest success to date by control agents.

The overall problem is even more immense. Worldwide, about 1,200 tons are produced illegally every year. Only a small fraction of it is being intercepted.

Granite City PRESS-RECORD
Thurs., Aug. 5, 1971 Page 37

The massive problem developing in Southeast Asia is becoming better known now that there have been publicly printed estimates of 25,000 to 30,000 U.S. military personnel there who are addicts.

Fourteen of the refineries reportedly processing the opium that these men use are supposed to be located near Taghilek in Burma, an area controlled by insurgents. Other refineries are said to be near Houei Sai and Nam Keung in Laos and Mae Sallong in Thailand.

POW-MIA Bracelets Involve Wearer in Efforts to Gain Humane Rights for U.S. Prisoners in Vietnam

By VALERIE EVENDEN

Press-Record Staff Writer

It is a simple metal band—a bracelet—but on it is inscribed the name of a very important American and a date.

The name belongs to a U. S. serviceman, who is among nearly 1,600 men known to be prisoners of war in North Vietnam or who have been declared missing in action and their fate as yet undetermined.

Those who wear the POW-MIA bracelet do so to honor the man whose name is engraved upon it, alongside the date he was lost.

The wearer agrees to keep the metal band around his or her wrist until the day the International Red Cross is allowed into Hanoi and can assure the serviceman's family of his status and that he is receiving the humane treatment due all men.

Mrs. Sandy Innes of Granite City, whose husband, Lt. Roger B. Innes, a U. S. Navy flier, has been missing in action since December 1967, wears such a bracelet.

So does Glen Campbell, the well-known entertainer, who recently accepted a gift bracelet from Mrs. Innes while appearing at the St. Louis Municipal Opera.

The POW-MIA bracelet was delivered to Campbell during the first of two shows he performed at the Forest Park outdoor theatre.

In the audience were Mrs. Innes and Mrs. Carol Plassmeyer of Belleville, both of whom could see the bright metal band shining on the entertainer's wrist when he returned to the stage following intermission.

Mrs. Plassmeyer is the wife of Marine Captain Bernard Plassmeyer, who was reported missing in action Sept. 11, aboard a one-man jet over Vietnam.

Gets Standing Ovation
Before concluding his show that night, Campbell held up his arm and displayed the bracelet, telling the audience of several thousand people about its significance and its origin. The performer received a standing ovation from the huge crowd after his talk.

"He vowed not to remove the bracelet from his wrist until he heard personally from me that Roger has been returned," Mrs. Innes said.

Only two songs were dedicated by the singer that evening. One was dedicated to his parents and the other to Mrs. Innes and her husband.

The melody honoring the Innes was "Impossible Dream," a personal favorite of the young couple. The number also was adopted by Lt. Innes' Navy unit as the squadron song, it was learned.

Wanting to learn more about the missing flier, Glen Campbell called Mrs. Innes the following day. They discussed the objectives of the U. S. National League of Families of American Prisoners and Missing in Southeast Asia, an organization in which both Mrs. Innes and Mrs. Plassmeyer are active.

Offers to Sing Melody
They also talked of a special song to be written and dedicated to the missing and imprisoned men and their waiting families.

Admitting that he has not composed a song in six years, Campbell gave Mrs. Innes the names of several friends who probably would be willing to write such a melody and offered to sing the number when it is composed, the local young woman said.

The entertainer also promised that he would mention the bracelet and emphasize its importance and distinctive meaning whenever and wherever he had the opportunity, Mrs. Innes noted.

The popular television star kept his promise starting that evening when he performed his second show on the Muny Opera stage.

Not only did he present a moving speech to the theatre patrons, describing the plight of U.S. servicemen held captive by the North Vietnamese and told of the years of anxious waiting by the families of men reported missing, but suggested everyone get and wear a POW-MIA bracelet to involve themselves more closely in the POW-MIA cause.

Available to Public
Many government officials are now wearing the metal wrist bands and hundreds of ordinary citizens, most of whom do not know personally the family of a serviceman who is a prisoner or missing, but who are deeply concerned about the POW-MIA situation, Mrs. Innes explained.

The bracelets are available to anyone writing VIVA, 121 Westwood Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif. 90024. Those ordering a bracelet should enclose a donation of $2.50 for nickel or $3 for an unaltered copper bracelet.

Mrs. Innes said that VIVA is a non-profit organization maintained solely by individual contributions. The bracelet donations, which are tax deductible, are used to help print and distribute material on the POW-MIA program to communities and students throughout the nation.

VIVA (Voice in Vital America), headed by Bob Hope and Martha Raye as honorary co-chairmen, engages in other educational programs which encourage students to meet their obligations as citizens, responsible and within the system.

The project has been approved by the National League of Families of American POW-MIA, Mrs. Innes said.

The national organization purchased several hundred bracelets earlier this year and presented them to the governors and senators of each state prior to "National POW-MIA Week."

Other groups raised funds to make similar presentations to congressmen and others in official positions, Mrs. Innes noted. Permission was granted by the families of the imprisoned and missing men to engrave their sons' and husbands' names on the bracelets, she said.

Involves the Wearer.
Receiving a bracelet as a gift has had tremendous impact on great meaning to many individuals, the serviceman's wife commented. "It is not that they were unaware how many men were missing, but suggested everyone get and wear a POW-MIA bracelet to involve themselves more closely in the POW-MIA cause."

A lieutenant-colonel wrote after getting a bracelet—"Three years ago today, I lost my brother."

"I didn't know he was lost, and I didn't know he was my brother, until a few weeks ago. A friend mailed me a small bracelet engraved:

"CWO William Kimsey" I-21-68

The Army officer went on to explain in his letter that it is natural to share the suffering of those you know. "But when one assumes the one-to-one bond with a stranger who is unable even to ask for your concern, or to ease the pain of his family, something happens to you."

"You are taught new lessons about old concepts—Mankind, Unity, Humanity, Caring and Brotherhood. The voice of William Kimsey speaks directly to me every waking hour," Lt. Col. L. W. Whitford Jr. wrote.

Letters to Hanoi
Persons acquiring bracelets also are urged to write the president of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam, Hanoi, North Vietnam, expressing their HELP WANTED. In a North Vietnamese prison camp, an unidentified American prisoner-of-war stares dejectedly at four barren walls. He is one of nearly 1,000 U. S. servicemen listed as missing in action or prisoners in South east Asia. None of the men have been officially identified by the Hanoi government since the first U. S. Army adviser was captured by the Viet Cong in March 1964, seven long years ago. The photograph, taken from a newsreel film, probably typifies one of the "better" cells afforded the POWs for propaganda purposes.

deep concern over the treatment of American prisoners of war and their families and reminding the North Vietnamese leaders of their sanctification in 187 of the International Geneva Conventions.

North Vietnam has shown itself to be sensitive and responsive to world public opinion and everyone can help in urging its leaders to honor the Geneva Conventions' obligations by writing letters, Mrs. Innes said.

In the letters, the writer also is asked to specify that a complete list of names of all men held by the North Vietnamese be published; the release of the sick and wounded; permission for neutral inspection of all prison camps; and to allow the free flow of mail between the prisoners of war and their families.

ON THE LINE at the Gateway Nationals Sunday, LeRoy Goldstone sits at the wheel of the Ramchargers Dodge in the final round of Funny Car competition.

IN THE AFTERMATH of a run by Art Arfons' 12,000 horsepower jet car, Super Cyclops, and American Hot Rod Association starter looks back at a string of starting lights blown down the track by the force of the jet thrust. The "Christmas tree" used for starting the car was downed as the jet roared by.

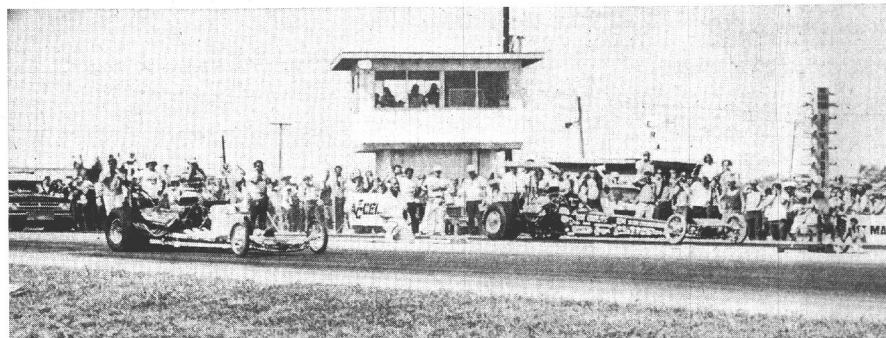

BURNING TIRES on his way to the starting line is Tom Hoover in the White Bear Dodge Challenger, winner of the Funny Car eliminations. Spectators in the background hold their ears against the deafening roar of Hoover's car.

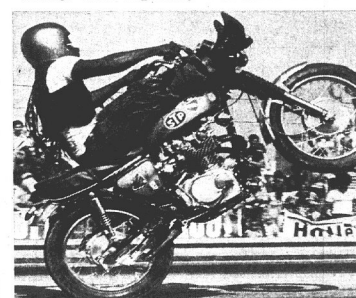

"MR. CHEVROLET" Dickie Harrell leaps his Camaro, left, off the starting line a fraction of a second before Tom Prock's Bergler & Prock Vega at St. Louis International Raceway Sunday.

Harrell jumped before the green light and was eliminated in this drag.

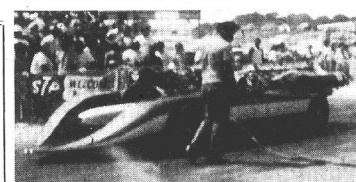

THE EXCITEMENT of the Gateway Nationals this weekend is captured by Photographer J. C. Richardson in these photos taken Sunday. Here "Big Daddy" Don Garlits waits in the Swamp Rat Dodge to drag Dale Funk on the quarter-mile. Funk won, eliminating Garlits from the meet.

RIDING THE HARD WAY, Maurice Smith demonstrates a unique style of motorcycle riding. He rode the Flying Carpet cycle through the quarter-mile and back on one wheel.

THE SUPER CYCLOPS jet car, driven by Art Arfons, was a highlight of the Gateway Nationals. The jet completed the quarter-mile at 257.88 miles per hour.

BEAUTY AND THE BEAST, a mini-skirted fan stands nearby as Mark Higginbotham in the RFI Dragon Vega waits for the plastic body of his funny car to be lowered.

It is proposed to be built on a minimum of 14,000 acres of land situated approximately 19 miles southeast of the St. Louis Central Business District within a triangle formed by Waterloo, Columbia, and Millstadt, Illinois. The proposed site is located about 3 1/2 miles northeast of Waterloo and falls in both Monroe and St. Clair counties. The airport will initially have a pair of principal runways and a cross-wind runway. Its terminal building will include a passenger terminal, an aircraft apron for passenger servicing and loading, ground transportation facilities, aircraft maintenance and service areas, support facilities, and facilities for air cargo and mail and executive aircraft service.

The hearing will afford interested persons, groups and agencies an opportunity for public consideration of the economic, social and environmental effects of the proposed airport. "Social and environmental effects" mean the direct and indirect benefits or losses to the community resulting from the proposed development. These benefits or losses may include, but are not limited to, the following:

- a. Safe and efficient air transportation;
  - b. Economic activity;
  - c. Public health and safety;

- (4) Aesthetics, parks and recreation areas;
- (5) Natural and historic landmarks;
- (6) Conservation (erosion, sedimentation, wildlife, and general ecology of the area).
- At the hearing interested parties may present oral testimony or written statements concerning the matters. In addition, written statements and other exhibits relating to these matters will be incorporated into the transcript of the hearing, provided such statements or exhibits are submitted to Mr. Arven H. Saunders, Executive Director of the Airport Authority, prior to September 5, 1971. Such written statements or other exhibits may be submitted by any interested party, whether or not such party participates in the oral hearing.

Although it is not mandatory, the Airport Authority requests each person or organization making an oral presentation at the hearing to notify the Authority in writing by telephone (800-656-7786) by August 13, 1971, and designate at which session of the hearing he wishes to appear to make his presentation.
